"KENYA NEEDS $FIVE BILLION IN FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE"

PARIS — Kenya needs about $5 billion in financial assistance for the next four years Finance Minister Mwai Kibaki has said in Paris after a meeting with donor nations and international lending institutions. The Vice-President was reported by the International Herald Tribune as saying that the participants had "agreed to a common approach" to solve the country's economic troubles. Some of the $5 billion will come through bilateral negotiations with those present at the three-day meeting of the Consultative Group for Kenya, held under the aegis of the World Bank, but Kenya will also have to borrow from commercial sources, Mr Kibaki said. He estimated that Kenya would need $330 million in assistance this year to finance its balance of payments deficit. No firm pledges of aid were made during the meeting, but Mr Kibaki said that the parties attending "strongly endorsed Kenya's policies and programs of development and structural changes and indicated their continued support." The report noted that the "growth of Kenya's once-booming economy has slowed greatly in recent years. "While the prices of tea and coffee — which account for about 60 per cent of export earnings — have fallen in real terms, oil prices have nearly doubled in the past three years, causing a large deficit

INCIDENT of game rangers and administrative police battled in the scorching sun to rescue a young elephant trapped in an abandoned well in the Sokoke Forest of Kilifi. The well was among a herd of 30 which ravaged through a 300-acre plantation belonging to the Cassava Plantation Company near Malindi and laid waste almost an acre of planted cassava. A crowd of Giriama men with bare chests and Hando-clad and children gathered around the 15ft deep bore-hole as the animal bathed in sand and flapped its huge ears. The elephant appeared to have suffered no injury. According to the report from Sokoke, the elephant was spotted trapped in the hole by herdsboys in the early hours of Wednesday. Game Rangers and administrative police arrived at the scene shortly before lunchtime and cleared the area for the rescue operation which was expected to last for hours. The rescue mission was being led by the Malindi District Warden Mr J. M. Wamaye assisted by his deputy Mr J. M. Nyamongo. A spokeswoman at the Malindi Range Office Miss Christina Mule told COASTWEEK that the four rangers were armed with rifles, cans of dynamite and ropes. The rescue team was expected to pull out the elephant using ropes tied to its body and pulled by the range-rover. Killing the animal would be the last resort if all other attempts failed.

5,000 STUDENTS WILL MISS OUT FROM SCHOOL

SOME TEN thousand Mombasa pupils have joined the queue for standard 1 admission next year. But only half of this number will be managed to get standard places. This is the heart-rending educational problem in Mombasa where 9,700 pupils are estimated to be seeking standard 1 in Mombasa in 1982.

by Gray Phombeah

This number will be added to those who missed school last year, together with those non-nursery pupils eligible for admission and those coming from up-country. Out of this number, only 5,000 pupils will be admitted when the new term begins in January next year.

According to statistics from the Municipal Education Office the number of pupils in Std. 1 in Mombasa in 1981 is in region of 6,942. There were only 147 streams in Mombasa at the beginning of this year.

A total of 6,188 pupils were admitted in maintained schools while 754 were absorbed in Assisted schools. The Municipal Education Office contends that in order to accommodate the outstanding number of 5,000 pupils threatened to miss Std. 1 places at the beginning of the year, 60 classes will have to be built between now and December.

And the Municipal Council of Mombasa will have to come up with KShs. 27,756,000 to finance the construction of these classes including furniture and other amenities.

This is part of the 1981 budget approved by the Minister for Local Government for the construction of Std. 1 classes in 1982 to be funded from foreign sources. The acting Municipal Education Officer, Mr. H. M. C. Madenge said:

"Every effort is required to reduce the number of children who are likely to miss Std. 1 admission in 1982. However, our main problem at the moment is that construction of these classrooms depend on the availability of loans from external sources."

When the 'Diamond of the Heart' becomes a pain

DIL KAA HEERA or the 'Diamond of one's Heart' is indeed. But what happens when it becomes impossible to maintain! Then one is faced with what to do with this 'Heera'. You either grin and bear it or you throw it away.

This is the theme of the film Dil Kaa Heera showing at the Naaz Cinema.

This film stars Dharmendra, Hema Malini and Sachin in the lead.

Rajat Sharma is a very honest custom officer. He had lost his young wife and while dying she had requested Rupa an air hostess to look after Muna, her son and Kundan, Rajat's younger brother.

While fulfilling her promise Rupa comes very close to Rajat and they inevitably fall in love with plans to get married. But Rupa has a condition that before they get married, she would fulfill Rajat's dream of making Kundan a famous doctor and a good citizen.

Rupa brings many toys for Muna from Singapore where her route takes her to. But Rajat is worried because he is informed that diamonds are smuggled into the country from Singapore.

One day a toy breaks in Rupa's hands and she is shocked to see diamonds in it. She gets nervous and throws all the diamonds into the sea.

Here Kundan reveals that he is the real culprit; that he is a smuggler using Rupa's toys to Muna as a means of smuggling the diamonds into the country.

But now the smugglers threaten Rupa that if she did not compensate for the lost diamonds they would kill Kundan.

In her desperate attempt to save Kundan, Rupa is now brought before Rajat — but as a smuggler.

AN EVENING WITH A CLASSICAL SITAR

SITAR Nawaz Ustad Basharat Khan, very well known Indian classical music circles — and who puts a new twist on Sitar recital at the Little Theatre, Nairobi — will give a Sitar recital at the Little Theatre on Saturday, August 8 at 9 p.m.

Basharat Khan started learning sitar at a very early age. His blood as both his father and grandfather were sitar players.

Basharat's speciality is 'komal' ragas and he is a Sarawati Veena. This is the main reason that a very few classical singers and musicians can play rare ragas on Sitar. 'Kirvani' etc., amongst other ragas. It is a sheer delight to hear him play the sitar.

He will be accompanied on table by Chandrasekhar and Kanya Air Force as Lt. Col. Chana. Chana started playing sitar at the tender age of eight. He has earlier been with Ustadh Nathu Khan of Bombay and has a remarkable rhythmic rhythm.

Lovers of Indian instrumental classical music have a treat in store for them and this should not be missed.

MOMBASA CHESS ACE WINS TOP AWARD

THE PANPAPER Chess Tournament has come to a close, with a record number of winners — 19 in all, in 17 categories.

This nine-game tourney, the premier event on the Kenya Chess calendar, drew more than 50 entrants from all over the Republic, and the prize money was higher than ever — thanks to the interest in the game of chess shown by the sponsors, Pan-Africa Paper Mills.

The over-all winner was the Nairobi Chess Club Tournament Director Aslam Adam, who was presented with the Panpaper Perpetual Trophy and a cheque for Shs. 2,400/=.

The winner of the 'Best Up-Country Player' title was Mombasa water engineer Fred Donde, who took leave from his job to be in Nairobi for the three week-ends of chess that compromised the tournament.

Donde is a founder member of the University Chess Club, A. L. U. T. A.

He also represented Kenya in the country's first-ever entry in the International Chess Olympiad in Malta last year, where he played on Board Four for P.P.M.-sponsored Kenya team.

Kenya took a Silver medal at the Olympiad — a very auspicious entry into international chess circles.

FIFTY YEARS' ON THE ROAD...

By MAMBO GICHUKI

IT is fifty five years since Galton-Fenzi made his remarkable pioneering run through Kenya's wilderness trails from Nairobi to Mombasa.

It was a good two week journey, filled with adventure and some kind of wonder.

The car he used was a Riley, a Redwing — still a cherished possession of the Automobile Association of Kenya which he founded. This venerable machine is undergoing a tremendous overhaul — for a good purpose.

It is about to relive the same journey.

Dressed in the A.A.'s yellow and green livery, carrying six gorgeous A.A. dollies and driven by ex-Hendon Police driving instructor Reg Metzger, it will lead what must be the oddest — and certainly most colourful — motorcade Kenya has ever seen.

For the A.A.'s Director

BACK IN THE BAD OLD DAYS — Mr L.D. Galton-Fenzi, founder of the Automobile Association seen with Captain Ghetin "somewhere near Kibwezi" on their historic first drive between Nairobi and Mombasa in August 1926.

General Alex Pearson has been organising a flamboyant promotion of his organisations services to Kenyan motorists — which the Riley will lead a renovated London double decker bus all the way from Nairobi to its place at the Mombasa Show.

Alex has called it "Operation Hop-Along" — and planned a carnival timetable that will bring excitement and colour to every township along the way. The journey begins on August 19 and ends in Mombasa on Monday August 24.

In the giddy in between, the A.A.'s double decker will show its wares — with the help of the A.A.'s six gorgeous hostesses — which include A.A. membership, a cut-price mini motor market, sweets for the kiddies, gifts for the adults, roast meat barbeques, mass traditional dancers, and school choirs.

I went along to his executive office in Nairobi's Westlands and talked to him about it.

"Membership of the A.A. is increasing at a satisfactory rate," said this former top ranker in the Kenya Police who has spent more than thirty five years of his life in Kenya.

MOMBASA SHOW

"We've got six branches and new ones planned. But I wanted to reach potential members in places where a permanent office would not be viable — and to show the A.A. colours all along the way."

He is hoping wananchi will turn out to cheer the spectacle — as I am sure they will.

"The final purpose of course" he pointed out "is to use the bus as our Mombasa Show-stand."

The first stop on the route is at Machakos — where the bus will be floodlit overnight.

Other overnight stops are Hunters Lodge, Mtito Andei, Voi and Mariakani.

In between the Hop-Along cavalcade will pull in at Sultan Hamud, Kibwezi and Mazerani.

"We're also allowing for unscheduled stops where cars might gather to see us," says Alex who has plotted an average ten kilometres an hour for the whole journey.

When he first had the idea, several people scoffed — most of them at the A.A. — but when I spoke to one veteran member of the motoring trade he told me: "It's a brilliant concept — a certain way of bringing the A.A. to the notice not only of potential members but the ordinary public too."

"What better way of showing the flag."

Alex himself was cagey about the cost, but the double decker has been completely re-fitted at D.T. Dobie's Nairobi workshop until it sparkles like new.

In fact it seems there is only one problem worrying anybody. Will the veteran pioneering Riley Redwing make it?

Vowed Reg Metzger: "I'll make sure it does — even though it has an inside out, upside down crash gearbox."

I reckon the whole of Mombasa should turn out on the day to cheer in what one wag has described as "the greatest trek in Kenya since Galton-Fenzi's original."

President Nyerere Moves His Office

PRESIDENT NYERERE last week moved from Dar es Salaam to the Chamwino State Lodge some 400 km from Dodoma — the proposed capital. He also officially transfers the President's office from Dar es Salaam to Dodoma.

Report from TONY BARROS

Construction of the State Lodge at one of the country's most famous Ujamaa Villages and capable of accommodating three heads of state started in 1977. It was completed early this year — eight years after the Government decided that the capital should be moved from Dar es Salaam to Dodoma in the national interest.

The Minister of State for capital development, Mr George Kahama said during the official transfer that Mwalimu's moving to Dodoma would shift "our national centre of gravity profoundly and permanently."

The Ministry of Mines and the Ministry of Livestock Development — both new ministries formed after the 1980 General Elections — are expected to move in this year to join the Ministry for Capital Development, the Prime Minister's office and the CCM headquarters which moved in the first year.

But Dodoma is far from meeting the ten year target as envisaged in 1973. There is an acute shortage of housing and construction has yet to begin on buildings that will house the other government departments, parastatal organisation, diplomatic missions and their residences.

The original estimation of some 3.7 billion shillings required to build the capital will probably treble if not quadruple given the snail's pace at which development is being undertaken coupled with the fact that the estimates were worked before the international spiralling costs of fuel, equipment and other building materials.

DODOMA HIGHWAY

And construction of the 260Km Morogoro-Dodoma Highway is in full swing and the first phase covering 100Kms will be ready towards the end of the year. The remaining 160Kms will be completed at the end of 1982.

The project is being undertaken by the Ministry of Works, A Brazilian contractors firm — Ecisa and the Dar es Salaam branch of the Nairobi-based firm of engineering consultants — John Burrow and Partners.

The Highway will serve as fully macadamised link between Dar es Salaam and Dodoma as the Dar es Salaam-Morogoro 200Kms. road is part of the Tanzania-Zambia Highway.

But another Brazilian contracting company — Cicol is having problems with the Government in the construction of the multi-million shilling World Bank funded Mindu Dam. The Government is negotiating with the World Bank to secure a new contractor as Cicol's work progress is understood to be unsatisfactory.

The Tanzania Railway Corporation (T.R.C.) needs 1.5 billion shillings to undertake a long-term programme aimed at improving the Central and Tanga lines. The foreign exchange component will be 1.1 billion shillings.

The project is solely for rail track laying which had started but did not include strengthening bridges and improving communications. T.R.C. has covered 376 kms. from Dar es Salaam along the central line out of the total 1,200 kms covered.

• Switzerland is a Tanzania 42 million shilling Carbon Dioxide feeder roads in the Kilombero District Morogoro region and a feeder road project in the Kilombero Valley.

Civil works on the shilling Carbon Dioxide plant in Kungu Southern Tanzania and is expected to be completed in a year. The plant which will be owned by the Tanzania National Limited (T.N.L.) National Corporation (N.C.C.) is expected to have a capacity of producing 100,000 tonnes of industrial Carbon Dioxide gas an hour on a night.

Drilling of the gas in Mbeya region began and according to the deposits, the gas there is 98 per cent pure.

• The 17th Conference on the Tse-Tse fly and disease — Transmissible spongiform encephalitis (sleeping sickness) — held in Anzola in Italy. It will be held under auspices of the International Society for trypanosomiasis and Tanzania National Council.

The 16th Conference held in Tanzania, 1979 and was attended by 100 scientists who prepared over 70 papers. 90 per cent of Tanzania's birds have seven species of tsetse fly.

• Sixty four members of Government constituted a committee to probe application of statutory regulations to their safety and administration.

Eight out of ten Tanzanians who took international flights in Dar es Salaam with distinctive link passes. For the link passes the Government appointed a Parliamentary committee to probe application of Sugar Development Corporation and its avoidable cost. The proposed price increase for 100 = a kilo.

The Government is complaining regarding the withdrawal of Dar es Salaam corporation. The measures to be made this week.

CANADA CANCELS

• Montreal linked to Dar es Salaam telephone lines. The project is being studied through a handicapped arrangements to open a Nairobi office.

HE WAS A MAN OF GREATNESS'

...with shock and great sorrow the untimely death of Mr David Kayanda through a road accident. The sad news of Mr David Kayanda removes from our midst an active and dynamic member of the general development of not only the Coast Province but the Republic.

...his exemplary services in Civic, Governmental and non-governmental spheres, the late Mr Kayanda set an outstanding example of cooperation and hard work. His general concern for the welfare of wananchi was exemplified by his keen participation in various Harambee committees, societies, associations, clubs and unions.

...who had the opportunity to meet and converse with him will recall his friendliness and his admirable ability to establish amicable relations with all people.

...of this office and my own family, it is with profound regret that I wish to convey my most sincere condolences to the family for the sad loss of a truly dear person to all of us. May the Almighty God rest his soul in eternal peace.

I. M. Yunis, Provincial Commissioner, Coast Province, MOMBASA.

SHIPPING SURPRISE

...was surprised on Saturday that the Daily Nation shipping news was almost word-for-word the same as I had read the previous day in THE STAR. Perhaps you could change your slogan for all the news each day to a new one like 'tomorrow's news'.

...COASTWEEK writers' really didn't last one last week. It is to be hoped that they in future show a little more initiative and originality in their work, or at least credit COASTWEEK with their 'fill' entire reports to their correspondents — ED.

This Man Was A Worker

THE sudden and tragic death of Mr David Kayanda in a road accident has created a void and robbed the country, his family and indeed very many wananchi of a dedicated and sincere worker who possessed enduring qualities as well as unflinching loyalty to the Republic of Kenya.

At this difficult hour of bereavement we extend our condolences to his bereaved family and pray to God to grant them fortitude and forbearance.

VIEWPOINT

CHALLENGE HOARDERS

HOARDING is a disease worse than smuggling and unless eradicated it will ruin the country.

For some time now, it is a miracle to get a kilo of rice or wheat, yet to some citizens they are more than a staple food. Yet some shopkeepers have been hoarding these commodities for their selfish ends.

This is more than an indication that amongst ourselves is a greedy species with no sympathy for humanity. Profit maximisation is their aim — at all cost.

Hoarding citizens to ransom, for this is what the hoarders are doing, is a serious crime. Our Nyayo Government shouldn't rest until this dangerous species is brought to book.

Hassan M. H. Noorani, MOMBASA.

PRINCE Charles and Princess Diana.

CAN Barclays Bank, Magadi Soda and British Airways in collaboration with V.O.K. kindly tell us what made them think that we were eager to watch Prince Charles' wedding on television?

The British have long exploited and insomuch as being our former colonisers, the British monarchy has absolutely nothing to do with us now and why anybody should think that we should enjoy watching an English royal wedding is beyond me.

£2 million! £2 million pounds could help the South African freedom fighters a long way economically in their struggle for Uhuru from the British. I insist on V.O.K. to stop being a puppet of those with colonial hangovers.

Our Heritage of Faith...

RADIANT AND happy James looked when he first got his job. He was pleased to be chosen for the position and determined that he would do it well. Seeing James working, it was obvious that he was doing what he wanted, his enthusiasm showed even as he worked. A few months later James was still at his post, but with a different look on his face. It was not that he did not still like the job, but the first enthusiasm had fallen a little bit.

As a good worker though, James was still doing his job well. He did not let his standard of work fall. Christians often face a similar situation in their lives. The first days and weeks after becoming a Christian, or having a deeper experience of faith, these are the good times. Enthusiasm is high and we have little trouble in being happy to live a Christian life. But like James other times come, when our feelings are not so certain. The everyday life seems dull and our desire to behave as God wishes is not so strong.

In these days times it is not easy to find the motivation to carry on trying. If it is hard for James to do this in his job, it is even harder for the believer in his faith. We expect to be able all the time to feel the truth of our faith, after all this faith, after all this faith is the most important thing in our lives. The joy, reassurance, acceptance and love in our belief all come to us as feelings. Yet the very peaks of these experiences stand out because of the ordinary routine which surrounds them.

In the humdrum times we must continue to behave in a Christ-like way. We are greatly helped as we grow in the faith by developing Christian habits. They carry us through the lean times. Also we can learn as it were to trust our memories. Recalling our experiences of the heights of our faith, we are encouraged to go on in the ordinary times.

Some turn to a hymn for help, counting their blessings, the words go on to say, "And it will surprise you what the Lord has done. Again we may follow the Psalmist and put our trust in God; "I wait for the Lord, my soul waits, and in his word I hope."

ACCOUNTANCY COURSES FOR MOMBASA

THE lecture programme of the well known Mombasa Branch of the Accountancy Tuition Programme will be starting again on September 7, 1981, in preparation for professional examinations in December.

The Accountancy Tuition Programme is a non-profit making organisation which aims to offer effective exam orientated tuition. From initial numbers of 40 students, it now caters for over 400 students, offering evening lectures and block release courses for both CPA and ACCA exams.

Both the Nairobi and Mombasa courses are now structured around the CPA syllabus as the most appropriate accounting qualification in Kenya today.

However the subjects covered are often also examined by the other professional bodies so that selected parts of the programme can also be of benefit to others, e.g. those studying for CPS, AIB or IAS qualifications.

The Mombasa programme will run for nine weeks and consists of one lecture per subject per week together with mock examinations during the programme.

INTENSIVE COURSE
The course is designed to finish early enough to enable students to attend the full-time block-release course to be run by Accountancy Tuition Programme in Nairobi in November, or for students to have four clear weeks for revision.

The course is of necessity intensive. Maximum benefit will be gained by the student who thoroughly prepares himself prior to each lecture. The lectures will concentrate on the more complex areas and on attempting examinations questions and discussing model answers.

The lecturers are of a high standard being drawn either from the qualified staff of major accounting and legal firms, or from leading educational establishments in Mombasa.

In some specialist areas lecturers are even made available by Accountancy Tuition Programme Nairobi who come to Mombasa and give a concentrated series of lectures over one or two weekends.

The timing of lectures is arranged to be outside normal working hours to enable students to attend without employers losing their services during the day.

Some of the leading firms in Mombasa sponsor their employees on the course and it is hoped that more Mombasa employers will follow. In Nairobi 90 per cent of the students are sponsored by their employers whereas only 70 per cent are sponsored in Mombasa.

The lectures are being held at Sacred Heart High School, Archbishop Makarios Road. Mr Devani of the management committee said that the lecture programme had been very fortunate in being allowed the use of facilities of the school for the lectures and praised the help given by Mr Soares, the Headmaster.

The cost of the course remains unchanged at Shs. 400 per subject, the fees being payable on enrolment.

The Mombasa management committee consists of Geraldine Smith, Adrian Bell, Subash Devani, Brent Wheeler, Iqbal Sunderji and Zul Alibhai, any of whom should be contacted if further information is required.

GREEK SHIP IN SINKING DRAMA OFF KENT COAST

DURING MY recent stay in the United Kingdom near the North Foreland on the Kent Coast, I continued to maintain contact with the nautical scene and witnessed the drama of the Greek owned Palapios vessel Aegis Blaze during mid-July when a major sea rescue effort had to be mounted to save the stricken ship.

The 19,000 ton 8 year old vessel had sailed from Antwerp for the Arabian Gulf with a full cargo when she began taking in water and going down by the head.

She managed to reach calm shallow water off Margate where a helicopter dropped pumping equipment aboard, two lifeboats were called, several tugs appeared plus a Royal Navy minesweeper.

After grounding the vessel to prevent her sinking the water was brought under control divers were called and she was finally towed up the Thames to Tilbury where she was partly to discharge, and dry dock for repairs.

As the vessel had not apparently contacted any object the reason why she sprung such a serious leak will be interesting to discover. Aegis vessels on the Tramp/Charter trade have called frequently at Mombasa.

Being so close to Ramsgate and a fine warm sunny day, my family and I ventured across the English Channel on a 2 1/2 hour voyage to Dunkirk on the newly introduced 4,500 ton Finnish ferry Viking 1 operated by the Saily Line, who are prominent ferry operators in the Baltic and have just entered the intensely competitive short sea trade across the English Channel.

VALUE-FOR-MONEY

Since their service commenced in June it is proving increasingly popular and no wonder, as the fare for foot passengers is only £4 sterling return, say, Kenya Shs. 70, thus giving wonderful value for money.

An extensive and mouth watering Smorgasboard can be had on the return passage for so named as the Palapios Shipowners are Greek British and German.

I refer to the 29 ton gross m.v. Franklin owned by Hapag-Lloyd, the largest German shipping company.

She can carry containers and has only 29 but also has facilities for 12 engine cadets with a officer.

This brings the total of ships on the Trio premier container line with the N.W. Continent with the Far East, to 10.

Another recently commissioned vessel of proportions and also the present world record sheep carrier Albatross formerly a Japanese Norwegian tanker converted in Germany.

She will trade between Australia and New Zealand 6-8 voyages per year.

SLEEK-SHEEP-SHIP

She has accommodated 125,000 sheep and three premium for an outside cargo.

The appearance of the vessel resembles a floating hotel flats, 14 decks high, manned by a crew of 40 cattlemen.

Amongst recent ships noticed the Missouri Sacramento Maru, a 10,000 ton caller at Mombasa has been bought by Japanese interests for $1 million.

Her sister ship the Maru is presently unloading and loading on the Coast her other 3' class ton St. Louis Maru was out of time ago.

SHIPPING with JOHN WALTERS

the equivalent of Kenya Shs. 80.

Passengers can spend five hours in Dunkirk and, in addition to purchasing a Duty Free Customs Allowance of 6 litres of wine at an average price of Shs. 10-15 per litre in the town, one can also buy your allowance of duty free liquor and tobacco on the return voyage.

So all in all the day trip, had so much to offer including distinct economic advantages.

Beacon, the now firmly established and popular British container line link between the U.K. and East Africa, recently announced that they are completely withdrawing their conventional service from Liverpool, so that the 2-3 week regular sailings from Liverpool, which served to back up the container service, will cease and the service will henceforth be exclusively containerised from the East Coast U.K.

With the advancement of the container and its various adaptations most cargoes nowadays can be containerised.

Beacon now comprises three British Lines, namely OCL (Overseas Container Line representing Clan, P & O and Union Castle interests), Ellerman and Harrison.

The last conventional sailing from Liverpool is expected to be the P & O Strathdink next month, and so another shipping chapter closes.

The Norwegian twin sisters, only fairly recently displaced by the worldwide swing to container/ro-ro vessels, which have been operating on the East African/Scandinavian trade for S.E.A.L. (Scandinavian East Africa Line) for a number of years, are the 10,000 ton gross Ranenjord and Lyngfjord.

Both built 10 years ago in Japan, they have been sold to South Korean owners for some $11 million: due to their age they should have a number of profitable trading years ahead of them.

Owned by the Norwegian American Line they were popular ships with East African exporters invariably enjoying quick turnrounds mainly due to utilisation of cargoes in which these two vessels specialised.

I made mention some months ago about the world's largest containership at that time being fitted out by the builders Deutsche Werft, Kiel, Germany.

The vessel in question is now on her maiden voyage to the Far East on the Trio service.

U.S. NAVY CALL ON GALGALO

MOMBASA (K.N.A.) — Coast P. C. Mr Luka Galgalo has once again reaffirmed that Kenya's doors were always open to visitors and went on to extend a hand of welcome to them to "sample our hospitality."

He reaffirmed this when he received the chief of staff and commander of the Middle East, United States Navy Force Captain J. L. Jones and the commanding officer of the USS Coronado Naval Vessel now in Mombasa Captain H. P. Kober in his office.

in the balance of trade a record deficit in a recent account.

"At the same time, a combination of high and, according to Bank sources, uncompetitive pricing that led to a planting, record Kenya import $100 million of corn, the staple food and traditionally an export.

"In an economic Kenya's role has been to import both food and raw materials in the same year, but really in a very difficult situation," Mr. Kober said.

Kenya hopes to improve its situation and currency reserves, now represent three percent of total worth of trade, restructuring the export-oriented sector to make it export-oriented and revitalizing the import sector.

"The first years of the 1980s are going to be difficult ones for Kenya's economy," a Bank official said.

"The temporary boom in the export sector is a prospect in which the unfavourable world environment in which international trade are likely to deteriorate."

BAMBURI IN THE 'WORLD PERSPECTIVE'

THE ANNUAL world production of cement is estimated at 860 million tons. Portland Cement Company operating in the Mombasa Municipal area of the Kenya North Coast has a capacity of 1.2 million tons a year. This means that if such output is reached by 1981 Bamburi will manufacture 0.14 per cent of world production, a modest percentage by world standards, or so it would appear.

But how significant or insignificant is Bamburi's capacity in the world-wide cement industry? How big is big and how small is small? An examination of the World Cement Directory published by London's Cembureau (1980) reveals some interesting statistics. To take the continent of Africa as an example, out of 113 cement factories in Africa, Bamburi ranks sixth in manufacturing capacity, at 1.2 million tons a year, only exceeded by factories in Egypt, South Africa and Zaire.

Stretching from the Atlantic to the Americas it would be hard to imagine that Bamburi's capacity would pale into insignificance when compared with the capacities of the 385 factories scattered across Canada to the north and Argentina to the south, the geographical complex including the United States, Brazil, Mexico, a dozen South American Republics and offshore islands, each with cement manufacturing facilities. But what is the comparison? If the Bamburi factory was situated in the United States it would rank fourth in the cement output in the overall industry, third in Canada, second in Argentina, second in Venezuela, Brazil and Cuba, first in Chile and Colombia with some interesting comparisons as will be seen in the table given below.

Europe also provides comparisons worth noting. Capacity ratings in the United Kingdom show that Bamburi ranks third in precedence; in Belgium, Bulgaria, Greece, Rumania, Luxembourg and second place in Austria, Denmark, Hungary, Ireland and Turkey.

LARGER THAN CHINA

What is surprising of all is to note that Bamburi has a larger capacity than any factory in the world, New Zealand, Israel, Malaysia, Thailand and China and ranks second in India. In the Cembureau Directory we have mentioned the following position Bamburi would occupy if the factory situated in the

THE HUGE factory complex of the Bamburi Portland Cement Company near Mombasa on the Kenya North Coast.

What is just as interesting as the table of precedence above is the fact that Bamburi is situated in a tropical region completely removed from the world's centres of commerce and industry, in distance Kenya is 4,000 miles from the source of spares, 1,500 miles from source of fuel and 2,000 miles to point of delivery of the largest proportion of exports.

Of some 1,500 cement factories in the world 136 have a higher capacity than Bamburi while 1,364 include 14 factories with the same capacity as Bamburi with the remainder at a lesser figure. This analysis shows Bamburi Portland Cement Company to rank among the top 10 per cent in world capacity.

KENYA'S MAJOR STAR

Dr Felix Mandl, the founder of Bamburi and the Company's chairman stated in the 1980 Company Report that if extra export tonnage can be secured within the next few years Bamburi's capacity will be increased to 1.3 or 1.4 million tons a year. The record speaks for itself. The factory started 30 years ago with a capacity of 100,000 tons has grown to a complex extensive enough to produce 1.2 million tons a year.

Bamburi can be proud of its achievements despite the hardships the industry has faced during the past decade. With sales promotion, technical perseverance, the application of all departments, with consideration and help by the Kenya Government Bamburi will continue to confirm the statement made by the compilers of the Economic Intelligence Unit in its Special Report on Kenya's Economic Prospects to 1985 which referred to Kenya's export endeavours with the remark: "Cement is the only major star".

MADHURI MEHTA writes:

'HIGH' ON 'HAIR'

RECENTLY I was talking to some emancipated, erudite 'cousins from England' — and they all, young girls as well as men, agreed that a real 'turn on' was a good looking head of lush, abundant hair.

I found out that apart from a general likeness, 'penchant' for ample or otherwise curves, heights etc. — hair ranked real 'high' on the list of 'must haves'.

While, understanding the present trend in long hair, casual and short, tidy hairdos were really missed. Today's hairstyles are rather vague. The accent being on studied indifference.

I rather like this term — indicates a well thought out, planned attack on the vulnerability of the unsuspecting victim!

Sleek hairdos are out. Instead one sees permed, primped, long locks, often completely covering the eyes — windows of your soul. Maybe the idea is not to lay your soul bare for one and all to peep into?

It probably was the hippie cult, that introduced the long hairdos, but whatever the origin, this style is 'hair' to stay.

SHAMPOO AND SET

The other day I had gone for my usual shampoo and set, when I saw this young man right next to me getting his hair permed, set and so on.

Hardly any difference between the male and the female hairdos these days. Unless you come across, very rarely, a young woman whose hair hang well below the waist. A real joy to watch. I personally feel it is a very welcome change to see hair of a normal length, parted sleekly, and duly pomaded! It is the very usual and common that irks.

The most eye catching thing is the unusual. These days it is a common sight to see men flinging their hair back from their eyes, in an effort to see you better, much the Miss Piggy style!!

Elvis Presley brought a new vogue. A stiff, quiff in the front, severely hacked at the back. Such a vulnerable style. Leaving the poor neck totally exposed.

His ardent devotees still adhere to this way of doing their hair.

Often a sleek, parted style is so deceptive. It has the advantage of making a murderer look like a gentleman. Dr Crippen of "what's your poison" fame — used to sport just such a style.

Arousing the maternal instinct in his unsuspecting victims. With his severe style, soft voice and gentle ways, he would lure women to their violent and gory end.

Talking of hairdos reminds me of an amusing anecdote; Some years back in India, I was 'walking' with an Admiral, while he delighted us with his immaculate golf.

Suddenly his concentration was spoiled. He had just seen the slender back of a young girl with long, lush hair.

"Now, that's a good looking wench, I wager". As he spoke, the 'wench' turned her head. "Good Lord" cried the Admiral "That's my son Sandy!!"

ERROL ON FOOD

A DELICIOUS NEW RECIPE

THERE are a few greater joys if one is interested in cookery, than to discover a new and delicious recipe, indeed it is one of the bonuses of cookery rather like gardening that no matter how much experience one has providing one is still willing to learn there is still plenty to be discovered.

In the midst of searching for a new recipe for cucumber sauce last week which I was hoping to serve with a tail of fresh salmon, I stumbled across a basic sauce the formula for which is completely new to me and is delicious for fish in particular.

Upon further research I now find that Melted Butter Sauce far from new has been neglected and rejected for almost half a century except by a discerning few, it was still made in the English kitchens when the use of Isigny butter was recommended by the great chefs of the mid-nineteenth century after which due to considerable impatience, lowering of standards and regular maltreatment it was habitually so badly made that it resembled flour and water paste more than anything else until, quite out of favour, it was dropped altogether.

This is a pity. It does need care in making but then so do most good dishes — it cannot be re-heated either and used again so that one has to learn to calculate the precise amount required if one abhors waste but that should be no impediment to the making of it.

Besides it opens up a whole new range of delectable sauces to serve with fish from river or sea once the basic sauce is mastered.

2-3 ounces butter salt.

Mix the flour and water to a thin paste, adding a pinch of sea salt in a small saucepan. A 'Bain Marie' or double pan into which boiling water in the base, is the safest method of ensuring that your heat is gentle and even. But make sure the base of the upper pan does not actually come into contact with the boiling water.

Stir this mixture over a low heat without allowing the it to boil. When this is smooth and hot add the butter in tiny chunks, pieces, stirring it each in vigorously with a wooden spoon all the while. Soon you will find that the sauce looks creamy, slightly thickened and as yellow as old ivory.

At no time it should be allowed to boil though it must be hot. This is the tricky part but a double pan should prevent this dilemma occurring. If it does boil you may as well throw it away because not only will it taste of raw flour but the butter will separate to oil.

In short, the scorn with which the sauce was greeted at the time it fell into disrepute you will see, if you taste it, will certainly be justified. But when cooked perfectly it is excellent and with a few drops of lemon juice added is good with grilled or poached salmon, trout, sole, asparagus or broccoli. Hand separately at the table.

MELTED BUTTER SAUCE

2 tablespoons of plain flour
1/4 pint water

CUCUMBER SAUCE

Have your basic melted butter sauce ready. Prevent a skin forming by covering closely with plastic film and remove the pan from the heat until almost ready to serve when the sauce can be re-heated with caution.

Have some chopped chives or parsley read and from a chunk of cucumber 2-3 inches in length remove both peel and seeds. Chop the flesh finely. Heat a nut of butter in a frying pan, add the cucumber and sprinkle with a little salt. Let it heat through but do not let it shrivel or fry properly.

Stir it, once heated, into your basic sauce. Add a god squeeze of lemon juice to taste, a sprinkling of chives or parsley. Again it goes well with fish and probably with chicken too.

EGG SAUCE

Use the basic sauce and have two hard boiled eggs ready to add to it but you will only use one white not both of them. Separate the eggs from the whites having shelled the eggs and chop individually.

First stir in the egg white chopped finely then the yolks and finally season with salt and remember that you are using eggs sauce hence chloving. If it is shelled white or shell

SHRIMP SAUCE

Half a pint of shrimp prawns tossed with seawater until they are ground maize or cayenne-pepper. Clean the shrimp carefully and stir the basic melted butter with the extra seawater. English tradition says this should be served turbot but it is so bound to enhance or poached fresh fish

ELAINE Shopping JIVRAJ VARDHAMAN FOR ALL YOUR NE STATIONERY NEEDS

VISITS to Jivraj Vardhaman could almost be termed COASTWEEK's Quarterly Progress Report — Jivraj Vardhaman & Bros., for on each occasion progress is the befitting word.

Their supply of stationery to big organisations has shot up and staring one in the eye this week was an enormous quantity of box files. Since so many stationers appear to be out of stock — with the cry "still coming from Nairobi!", surely they would be well advised to take theirs from Kericho Road (late Jain Street) instead. Jivraj Vardhaman give quantity discounts.

Other stationery items moving quickly are duplicating paper and, simply, typing paper. Then there are stencils which fit the popular brands of duplicators like Gestetner and Rex Rotary. The most-used size calculating machine and adding machine rolls, 2 1/4", are now available in 2-ply.

We were asked to recap on the cables for calculating machines, which appear to get lost/pinched in Mombasa. Many an idle machine rotting in an office corner for want of work can get going with this life-line.

Jivraj Vardhaman, still best renowned for their General and other makes of cash registers and calculators, have added to all sorts of typewriters and are doing extremely well with the repair of typewriters, both electric and manual.

REPAIR SERVICE

It was enlightening to see how many kinds they covered in their typewriter repair service, especially since many of the makes are already represented by agents here!

Their contacts are obviously good, established by the personal service always offered. Jivraj Vardhaman have four technicians to back them — the oldest with 16 years' experience

Y.W.C.A. MOVING INTO 'RURAL DEVELOPMENT'

THE YOUNG Women's Christian Association — open to people of all races and religions — is laying particular emphasis on promoting 'Rural Development', and recently took over from the National Christian Council of Kenya women's project in the Lower Tana area, writes Neta Peal.

To help fund it they plan to convert their former Vocational Training College, Likoni, into a Holiday and Conference Centre. Meanwhile, it is being operated as a small guest house.

Interviewed at Mombasa, Thithi Watanya, the YWCA's General Secretary said 'our idea is to raise funds to establish this centre at Likoni which in turn will help finance our work in the Lower Tana area'.

Top priority will be given to providing a house for their newly appointed Field Officer, Martha Mngatana, a community centre where women can meet, nursery schools, as well as promoting leadership development programmes.

Giving their background to their Lower Tana River project, Mrs. Louisa Owiti, secretary of the YWCA's Coast branch, who is also a member of the Mombasa Municipal Council, said that the Tana River Churches Development Committee, being concerned by frequent flooding retarding development work had approached the NCCK for help in obtaining experts to work with them on a projected irrigation scheme.

CHURCH GRANT

In 1978, the NCCK had obtained a grant from churches in Holland, as well as the services of two experts in irrigation and agriculture to help start a 'pilot' irrigation scheme in the Lower Tana River area.

This was run by the NCCK, Ministry of Agriculture and the Lower Tana Churches Co-ordinating Committee. Wives of these expatriates, one a nurse and the other a social worker, had started women's programmes as well as income generating activities.

When the NCCK expatriate team were due to leave, women of the area and NCCK had asked the YWCA to take over these programmes.

Said Louisa 'the Tana River schemes are still being financed by NCCK and we have already recruited staff to run ten women's groups there'.

She said 'we hope that with the income from the Holiday and Conference Centre at Likoni we shall, in 2-3 years time, be in a financial position to take over these programmes.'

Recently visiting the Coast and the Lower Tana River projects were Thithi Watanya, the YWCA's general secretary and Mrs. Wanjiku Chiuri, national chairman.

Thithi attended a General Assembly of the NCCK — to which the YWCA is affiliated — at the Kanamai Holiday and Conference Centre, Kikambala.

She said the meeting had discussed women's projects as well as finding a suitable recruit for the Women's Desk they wish to establish. This will co-ordinate all women's groups and projects within NCCK.

FAMILY LIFE

The YWCA team visiting the Lower Tana River also included Louisa Owiti and the National Hostels Administrator, Mrs. Grace Ng'anga. There they are joined by a District Adult Education team from Holo led by the District AED, John Wanyoni also two Family Life field educators, a nutritionist, and Community Development

THITHI Watanya, General Secretary, and Wanjiku Chiuri, National Chairman of the Kenya Y.W.C.A.

DIANI SEA LODGE — A FASCINATING NEW DEVELOPMENT

By NETA PEAL

The attractive development which enhances the natural beauty of the beach is taking place at Diani Sea Lodge with all air-conditioned bungalows, each with its own porch and front garden — surrounded by lots of trees, colourful shrubs, and as well as three very old and well-groomed Barbab trees.

Best care has been taken to ensure that no tree was cut down unnecessarily, while all buildings are no higher than the ground floor level.

Diani Sea Lodge — representing an investment of Sh22 million shillings — is now ready for the holiday season.

Accommodation is being provided on full and half-board basis, and already many tour operators will be sending groups including Touristik International, Jahn Airtour Suisse, Privat and Francorosso.

The owners and developers of Diani Sea Lodge are Gerhard and Liane Matthiessen who are no strangers to the Coast for they are shareholders in Two Fishes and Whispering Palms Hotels, which Gerhard was Managing Director for several years.

They are from Germany, and Gerhard has a consulting business (now run by his wife) dealing building contracts. He also designed the houses himself.

They came to Kenya in 1972 and fell in love with the coast.

Their investment in Two Fishes and Whispering Palms started in a small way, but soon they were buying more and more shares as time went on.

Gerhard said 'we would like to do something for ourselves' and in a bid to government he said 'a project was made possible through the help and co-operation we have received from the Ministry of Tourism, and Central Bank'.

'TRADITIONAL STYLE'

Diani Sea Lodge is spread on a ten-acre site, and the hope to build staff quarters on the opposite side of the road.

The architectural style is a mixture of traditional boroti and modern design.

Gerhard and a friend from Germany designed the buildings themselves, and a feature is that beds can be converted into divans during the day with coverlets and matching cushions, with pillows being stowed away thereby transforming the room into a very attractive lounge.

An interesting and practical feature are their two-roomed family bungalows with a toilet/shower in between. There is only a 60 per cent extra charge made on the cost of a double room for this additional children's room.

Gerhard and Liane have designed the furniture themselves, which is being made in their own workshop by eight local carpenters and eight assistants. Said Gerhard 'we are trying to employ as many local people as possible'.

A Malindi architect, Alessandro d'Allesandro has designed the main buildings, while Paolo Francescon is the contractor.

There is a split level restaurant enabling all diners to have a panoramic view of the swimming pool and sea, and nearby is a separate building for a bar and three lounges — again following the split level design.

TASTY SEA-FOOD

A curvy swimming pool is being thoughtfully provided with a bar, and swimmers will sit in the water to enjoy a drink! There is also a pool for children.

A snack bar will serve a variety of pizza and tasty sea-food dishes.

The hotel will carry a five days supply of water and is equipped with a generator should the power fail, while all hot water is solar heated.

Liane, with 'green fingers' is converting the coral bush into beautiful lawns and is planting many trees and shrubs, turning the gardens into a tropical paradise.

There are four shops which will be rented to interested local people and future plans include a tennis court and 'mini' golf.

Facilities will be available for all water sports, as well as land/air excursions, also car hire.

Hotel Diani Sea Lodge, owned by Diani Properties Limited, will be run by Gerhard and Liane Matthiessen, together with a local manager.

It makes a very welcome addition to Kenya's hotel industry, and is something of which the country can be very proud.

LUFTHANSA SPIELT AUCH FURBALL

Zwischensaison, wenn der Touristenstrom erheblich zunimmt, sind das Jadini Beach Hotel und die Africana Sea Lodge in Diani an der Südküste nicht nur gut besetzt, so daß ein reiches Publikum, bestehend aus Hotelgästen und Touristen, dem Fußballspiel der Lufthansa- und der Hotelmannschaft beisteht.

Die Lufthansa-Interessierten sind nicht nur die Spieler, sondern auch die Fans, die sich zum Spiel mit 3-4 Tausend Leuten versammeln. Der Lufthansa-Club hat eine langjährige Erfahrung und hat in den letzten Jahren in Singapur, Hongkong, London und Warschau teilgenommen. Die kenianischen Spieler traten jedoch auf dem heimischen Grund und vor heimischem Publikum wie ein Sieger auf. Die Gäste der Lufthansa- und der Hotelmannschaft schossen in der ersten Halbzeit Alfred Juma zwei Tore, während die Food & Beverage Mannschaft nur ein Tor durch Pfiff und Wolfgang Schwanke erzielte für Lufthansa ins Ziel. Nach dem Match wurden die Gewinner Fußball-Leibchen von der Fluggesellschaft und Bücher über die Geschichte der Lufthansa übergeben.

Chris Modigell, General Manager der beiden Hotels, verteilte bei dieser Gelegenheit auch Preise an die von der Hotelleitung und von Gästen ausgewählten "Angestellten des Monats". Besonderen Applaus erntete der 67-jährige Gärtner Mwendo Mwamnyasa, der sich noch viel zu jung fühlt, um sich von der Arbeit zurückziehen zu lassen. Mwamnyasa wurde schon mehrmals im Lufthansa Magazin erwähnt und hat viele Freunde unter dem Personal verschiedener Fluggesellschaften, die gelegentlich ihren Urlaub in diesen beliebten Hotels an der Südküste verbringen.

Ein traditionelles Krebsdiner wurde den Spielern serviert; anschließend tanzte man in gehobener Stimmung in der Banda Diskothek bis in die frühen Morgenstunden, so daß der fröhliche Anlaß allen in bester Erinnerung bleiben wird bis zum nächsten Fußballmatch, der für das Lufthansa-Team in Peking stattfindet.

Wunder des Tierreichs:

Die größte Schau der Welt beginnt

NACHDEM DIESES Jahr die ersten Gnus in der Masai Mara Ebene gesichtet worden sind — wie ein Pilot von Sunbird meldet — kann sich Kenia auf eine neue Welle von Millionen außergewöhnlicher Besucher gefaßt machen.

Die berühmte Völkerverwanderung oder 'Migration' der Gnus, die als Weltwunder des Tierreichs gilt, hat begonnen. Etwas verspätet, wegen der lang anhaltenden Regenfälle und immer noch grünen Weidegründe in Tansania, sind nun anderthalb Millionen Gnus unterwegs und wandern von der Serengeti nach Norden in das Masai Mara Wildreservat. Direkt hinter ihnen folgt ein Zug von Raubtieren und Aasfressern, sozusagen als Gesundheitspolizei. Auf anderen Wegen folgt auch ein großer Strom von Touristen, um dieses spektakuläre Naturschauspiel zu beobachten.

Die Firma African Tours & Hotels hat ein Marketing Team von Mombasa und Nairobi in das Kichwa Tembo Camp an Ort und Stelle geschickt, um mit Vertretern des Safariunternehmens Abercrombie & Kent und von der Fluggesellschaft Sunbird die Vorbereitungen zur Aufnahme der Besucher während der Migration und während der nächsten Saison zu besprechen und zu treffen. Bei A.T.&H. sind während der Migration bereits 1000 Buchungen eingegangen; das Kichwa Tembo Camp erwartet für die kommende Saison mindestens 12.000 Logiernächte von Besuchern aus Übersee.

Verschiedene Reisebüros vermitteln von Mombasa aus mehrtägige Bus- oder Flugsafaris ins Masai Mara Gebiet. Ein speziell günstiges Angebot offeriert Sunbird ab Nairobi. Sunbird fliegt täglich vom Wilson Airport aus, je nach Wunsch entweder nach Kakorok, Mara Serena oder zum Kichwa Tembo Camp, wo Geländewagen mit erfahrenem Chauffeur zur Verfügung stehen.

Die Fahrzeugtypen sind speziell konstruiert mit offenem Dach zur freien Wildbeobachtung und zum ungehinderten Fotografieren.

Kilimanjaro

Sunbird fliegt mit dem wendigen italienischen Flugzeugtyp Partenavia mit hoch angesetzten Flügeln, die eine besonders gute Sicht nach unten freigeben. Je nach Anzahl der Passagiere wird auch eine DC-3 Maschine eingesetzt, die — obwohl von ganz anderer Konstruktion — dank ihrer großen runden Fenster ebenfalls zur Wildbeobachtung sehr geeignet ist.

Der Flug geht über den eindrucksvollen Afrikanischen Graben mit den schroff abfallenden Steilhängen, und mit etwas Glück sieht man bei klarem Wetter im Norden den Fünftausender Mount Kenya und im Süden den schneebedeckten Sechstausender Mount Kilimanjaro.

Die Aussicht aus der Vogelschau ist einmalig.

Im Kichwa Tembo Camp trafen sich Vertreter von African Tours & Hotels, der Safarifirma Abercrombie & Kent und von der Fluggesellschaft Sunbird, um die Vorbereitungen für die nächste Touristensaison zu besprechen.

Wenn der Pilot in geringer Höhe über die offene Ebene im Maragebiet fliegt, sieht man den unendlichen Strom der langsam wandernden und grasenden Gnus wie schwarze Ameisen dahinziehen.

Wenn man die Berichte gehört hat, wie viel Schaden durch die Wilderer angerichtet wird, ist man in der Tat erstaunt über diese gewaltige Ansammlung von Tieren.

Außer den Gnus sieht man aber auch Hunderte von Zebras, riesige Büffelherden sowie verstreute Gruppen von Giraffen. Das Steppenwild ist vorherrschend; grazile Impalas, langbeinige Thomson-Gezellen, zierliche Grants Gazellen, fette Wasserböcke, winzige Dikdiks.

Gelegentlich begegnet man Elefanten auf dem Weg zur Tränke. Die Löwen von Masai Mara sind zahlreich, und es ist keine Seltenheit, daß man eine Gruppe von 20 und mehr Tieren antrifft. Geparden sind seltener als Löwen; man sieht sie aber noch eher als Leoparden, die hauptsächlich nachts unterwegs sind.

Im Marafuß tummeln sich Flußperle mit stotternden Grunzlauten. Auf den Sandbänken liegen unbeweglich die Krokodile in der brütenden Sonne. Das ist echtes Afrika, unverdorben, wild und ungezähmt.

Sunbird startet in Nairobi täglich um 14.30 nachmittags und fliegt am nächsten Tag um 16.00 Uhr zurück. Die Flugzeit dauert jeweils nur 45 Minuten. Diese Flüge sind besonders geeignet für Geschäftsleute und Besucher, denen nicht viel freie Zeit zur Verfügung steht. Mit Sunbird vermeiden Sie die schlechten, holprigen und staubigen Straßen. Sie fliegen direkt aus der Stadt mitten in den Busch, wo die größte Schau der Welt im Tierreich stattfindet.

Deutscher Fernsehfilm in Kenia aufgenommen

von NETA PEAL

DAS Trade Winds Hotel in Diani an der Südküste war im vergangenen Monat der Schauplatz einer Reihe von Filmaufnahmen für den letzten Teil des westdeutschen Fernsehfilms "Versuchung".

Eine Gruppe von 20 Filmleuten war daran beteiligt, und viele Einheimische — darunter auch edle Hotelkellner — wurden zusätzlich zum Mitspielen aufgeführt.

Der bekannte Filmstar Helmut Griem spielt die Rolle des Geschäftsmannes Ludwig. Eine Szene, die im Hotel aufgenommen wurde, zeigt eine vornehme Party von Europäern und Afrikanern, die einen besonderen Erfolg in Ludwig's Geschäftskarriere feiern. Andere Aufnahmen wurden bereits in Italien, Frankreich und in der Schweiz gemacht.

Die Spielleitung des Films hat Krystof Besser bekannt als Christ Zanussi, der sich auch als Schriftsteller betätigt. Er hat kürzlich den Film "Aus einem fernem Land", nach einer Biographie von Papst Johannes Paul II., fertiggestellt. Die Aufnahmen dauerten fünf Monate und die letzten Szenen wurden im Vatikan aufgenommen, wo zum ersten Mal Schauspieler für Filmaufnahmen zugelassen wurden.

Die Weltpremiere wird im September in Venedig stattfinden, gefolgt von einer "königlichen" Premiere in England.

Der Film entstand hauptsächlich im Auftrag des englischen Filmschaffers Lord Lew Grade, der hierbei auch Koproduzent war. Er ist der Erfinder und Eigentümer der Muppet Show, die Millionen von Kindern und Erwachsenen auf der ganzen Welt begeistert, obwohl der spanische Film "Jesus von Nazareth".

Trade Winds

Chris Zanussi ist Pole und hat 18 Spielfilme geschaffen. Er war vor etwa fünf Jahren in Kenia an einem Festival, an dem seine Filme gezeigt wurden.

Ein Helikopter flog für eine Filmszene an die Südküste und erregte beträchtliches Aufsehen, vor allem unter den Einheimischen.

Sagt Chris: "Mein Produktionsmanager hat alle Hotels an der Südküste besucht, um das für unseren Film am besten geeignete herauszufinden. Er entschied sich für das Trade Winds und hat damit wirklich eine gute Wahl getroffen. Die Hotelleitung sowie die Angestellten waren alle sehr hilfsbereit, ich habe meinen Aufenthalt hier so sehr genossen, daß ich demnächst auch meine Mutter für einen Urlaub nach Kenia bringen will."

COAST MUSLIMS PLEDGE LOYALTY TO PRESIDENT

"THERE isn't an iota of doubt in the mind of His Excellency President Daniel Arap Moi that the Muslims passionately love him and are one hundred per cent loyal to him and his Government."

REPORT by FARAJ DUMILA

Muslims to follow such examples for their own progress and harmonious and happy co-existence between themselves and their non-Muslim compatriots.

This was expressed by the chief guest, Mr Luka Galgalo, the Coast Provincial Commissioner at an outstandingly well attended Idd Baraza, organised by the Mombasa Muslims Association.

The major themes of the speeches were forgiveness, unity, promotion of education and on law of inheritance.

Mr Galgalo told Muslims that they stood to gain a lot if they would completely ignore their petty squabbles and devote their energy towards all aspects of progress.

Islamic teachings emphasise mutual understanding and harmonious co-existence between Muslims and Christians to such an extent that there is an explicit verse in the Holy Quran which expounds that the Muslims would find in their Christian compatriots passionate love and genuine affinity since among the Christians there are monks and priests who fully understand the Heavenly Scriptures such as Torat, Zabur and Gospel which form the Old Testament; which are compatible with the teachings of Islam.

On the theme of forgiveness, Chief Kadhi of Kenya, Sheikh Abdalla Farsy observed that Islam would go to the extent of forgiving the murder of one's relative so long that the murderer proved to be genuinely repentant.

CHIEF KADHI

He mentioned a number of Islamic historical episodes, most distinctly of them were the murder of the uncle of Prophet Mohammed by an Abyssinian, who was sent earlier on to kill Hamza by a woman by the name of Hindu, the eater of human liver. Both were forgiven by the Prophet.

Sheikh Farsy called upon the Shariff Nassir and the Mayor of Mombasa, Councillor Rajab Sumba touched on the importance of unity and their speeches augured very well on the prevailing situations where genuine unity is being positively and constructively nurtured in all spheres of the Coast activities, particularly on the political arena.

Councillor Sumba said that following the new mandate he had received from his colleagues and the people of Mombasa at large, the Council has emerged with positive and constructive attitudes, and would encourage even more effective service to Mombasa residents.

Hon. Said Hemed made a highly impressive speech, to prove beyond any shade of doubt that Muslims throughout the Republic were in complete support of His Excellency President Moi and appealed to Mr Galgalo to convey such feelings of the Muslims to the President.

He, also, made a strong appeal to the Provincial Commissioner to find an amicable way of conveying their feelings about the recently enacted 'law of inheritance' which the Muslims feel it is detrimental to their teachings pertaining to the Islamic Law of Inheritance as expounded in the Holy Quran.

He further informed Mr Galgalo that the Muslims intend to form a huge delegation from every part of the Republic of Kenya to visit the President and seek his advice on the issue as the Muslims, at the moment, are at abeyance on this touchy issue.

For many years, Mombasa had not witnessed such an impressively well organised 'Idd Baraza' which was so well attended.

RUTH TOUW TAKES THE LADY'S CUP AT NYALI

Golf results from CENTI KUMI

concurrently with the Lady Captain's prize, the following were the results:

A Division — winner: Mrs R. Touw, 68 nett; Runner-up: Mrs J. Haji, 70 nett.

B Division — Winner: Mrs M. Mitchell, 67 nett; Runner-up: Mrs M. Ronaldson 71 nett.

Whilst the ladies were fighting it out at Nyali, Mombasa were hosts to Royal Nairobi Golf Club in their annual August fixture.

On Saturday the monthly medal was run on a foursome format, with one Mombasa and one Nairobi player playing another.

Traditionally the Mombasa winner gets a Royal Nairobi mug, and the Royal Nairobi player gets a Mombasa mug.

Winners: W. Roche and L. Vadgama, 67 1/2 nett; Runners-up: D. Wyvekate and Shomit Shah, 69 nett, and Third: M. Mzee and S. B. Shah (pine-apple) 69 nett.

Sunday morning was the scene of the annual match between Mombasa and Royal, and this match is always played four ball better ball off scratch.

Originally Mombasa had a virtual monopoly in winning this fixture, but in recent years Royal have now won six times in all, possibly because Mombasa's standard has dropped, but also because the fairways are not as sandy as they used to be, and this reduces the element of local knowledge being such a major factor.

This year Nairobi had a narrow victory by eight matches to seven with two halved, and the result could have gone the other way, as Al Hatimy played for the visitors and won his match. The record so far is Mombasa has won 52 times, Royal Nairobi 6 times, and one match drawn.

This weekend all eyes are on the Coast Open Championship at Mombasa Golf Club, and 75 entries have been received for this popular event, sponsored once again by Pan Africa Insurance Co. Ltd.

HISTORY OF BARRY CUP

THE BARRY Cup was donated to Mombasa Golf Club in 1913 by Mr Percy Barry, who, in addition to being a Founder member, was the first Honorary Treasurer and Captain four times. In 1913, he was elected Honorary Life Member, the highest honour any Club can bestow.

The first time competition took place was over the Christmas weekend in 1911, and it was won, appropriately by Mr Barry himself. Originally it was intended that if the Cup was won by the same competitor three times running it became the winner's property. However, after Mr A. J. Borland achieved this feat in 1932, 1933 and 1934, the Club committee suggested that the trophy be held in perpetuity as a Challenge Scratch Trophy to commemorate Mr Barry's outstanding services to the Club, and this was carried.

The Barry Cup has been played under the aegis of the Kenya Golf Union since 1928 and some very famous Kenya golfers have won this championship. The Barry Cup is the trophy for the event now commonly known as the 'Coast Open' and counts towards the K.G.U. 'Golfer of the Year' award. This year's field is expected to include at least six previous winners.

PREMIER COAST GOLF COMPETITION

Apart from the interruption of World War Two, the competition has been staged annually, and 1981 marks the sixty-second year of this championship, the premier golf competition at the Coast.

Since 1975, the competition has been sponsored by the Pan-Africa Insurance Company Limited, whose active and generous support has made this an extremely popular competition.

Benson & Hedges
Special Filter

Created and perfected by the House of Benson & Hedges

THERE must be quite a large number of Mombasa's motorists who have been caught speeding by the radar sets operated by the Kenya Police.

For those who haven't been nabbed yet, and would like to forego the pleasure, the carburetor radar sets are difficult to detect; the equipment consists of a tube that clips to the car's door post, this emits a radio pulse that bounces off your car, is picked up by the same device and by some electronic wizardry the machine is capable of calculating and displaying digitally the speed that the target is travelling at.

To dispense a few misconceptions, radar can work in the dark (aircraft and ships to use it to navigate in thick mist) and since the radio pulse bounces off the metal body, while switching the engine off or shifting into neutral gear has no effect on the reading.

While the Police are responsible for enforcing the existing rules of the road which insist that traffic on certain roads keeps to a speed lower than 50k.p.h., is it possible for the authorities to consider a system whereby roads are graded and stepped speed limits imposed?

As an example, consider travelling out of the centre of Mombasa on the North Coast road towards Malindi. A 50k.p.h. limit makes total sense along Digo Road, Tom Mboya Avenue, over the new bridge until a point a kilometre past Kisauni junction.

The straight road past Bamburi is safe at 70k.p.h., and once across Mtwapa Bridge the national limit of 100k.p.h. would apply until the twisty section before Kilifi.

A driver entering Mombasa would be required to loose speed in defined steps, a more practical demand than the present sudden change from 100k.p.h. to 50.

Meanwhile, could the missing limit and de-limit signs be replaced?

As one drives along most of the tarmac trunk roads, in or out of Mombasa, Malindi and Mariakani, there are several places where one has to use the rear view mirror to read the sign on the other side of the road to discover that one has entered or let an era where speed is restricted.

Now to a motor sport event that, for once, will not require steel nerves and a leaden right foot. On Sunday, August 16, Mombasa Motor Club and Bahari Jaycees join forces to put on the Economy Rally, sponsored by M-Kay Service Station.

The sponsors have generously offered to cover the cost of replacing the fuel used by the first 40 cars that enter. Latecomers will be accepted but will pay for their own petrol.

The mechanics of such an event are as follows. Before the start, the entrants fill their tanks to the brim. The organisers then seal the tank and at one minute intervals, the cars are set off on a 100km. route.

There are several check points where your time will be recorded with penalties for early or late arrivals. The drivers objective is to drive at a steady speed as possible, maintaining the average speed required for the particular section.

The remaining occupants of the car will be busy looking for the answers to a series of questions on the route; road signs, telephone numbers etc. — meanwhile the chairperson of the navigational sub-committee keeps the driver informed of his deviation from the organisers' timings.

In case anyone stays away because of the goat tracks and mud swamps that up-country drivers complain of, the route for the Economy Rally involves main road tarmac to Mariakani, smooth murrum to Kaloleni, more tarmac to Ribe, a very gentle descent of the Nguu Tatu hill to Kisauni and across Nyali Bridge to the finishing point.

Each car is then refilled with petrol and the pump will indicate the amount used during the event.

Cars will be divided into three classes, upto 1,200 cc, 1,200-1,600, and over 1,600 cc. with prizes for first and second in each class, depending on number of entries. In addition, an overall winner will be declared on performance index, obtained by dividing the fuel used by the capacity of the engine.

To prevent any undercover topping up, fuel gauges will be checked at each control and the route will be crawling with official observers.

For those who are interested in taking part a few suggestions.

- Drive slightly faster than the average speed required for the section, this will offset any delay and allow you to wait for correct time at the control.

- Navigation will be by route notes with Safari type diagrams to show the correct direction at each junction. Before the day, check the trip odometer on your car over the distance between the M.M.C. markers on the Mombasa-Mtwapa Road; these are at the north fence of V.O.K. transmitter and the Shimo-la-Tewa prison. The Economy Rally reading is 10.0 so you will know what error to expect at each stage of the day.

- Use gentle acceleration, think well ahead so as to loose speed before any junction.

- If you coast downhill, be careful not to lock the steering.

- Remember the winner is the driver who used the least petrol.

The entry fee for members of M.M.C. or Bahari Jaycees will be Shs. 60 per car (correction from last week), with an additional Shs. 10 for non-members. With free petrol limited to 40 cars, M.M.C. secretary, Lilian Gardiner, has opened a booking list, once the list is filled, latecomers will pay for their own fuel. Start order will be in the order of entries received. Numbers will be provided at the start.

Why not ring 312924 and take part in your first ever motor sport event; you and your team will enjoy it.

Once again, the organisers of the Severin Malindi Rally had to fend off complaints from entrants about the route being too rough, too long, too easy, or too lonely. Goat tracks are frowned upon these days, and attempts to aid navigation through some of the less developed areas by painting tree trunks red or white didn't go down all that well either.

I just hope the complainers read the letter in last week's edition and realised how lucky they were that they weren't sent around that hell run, Mama Ngina Drive. That way they didn't have to face the dark, cold environment and the risk of running out of petrol at the deadly hour of 10.30p.m., or being trampled underfoot by a stampeding jogger.

Thus without fuss, recognition, sponsorship or seeding points do the gallant drivers of Mombasa go about their daily business.

Third Annual Special Olympic Festival Set For Shanzu

THE third Annual Special Olympics for the mentally handicapped children will be held at the Shanzu Teachers' College on Sunday from 8.30 a.m., writes Khiladi Hoshiarpuria.

The event in which mentally handicapped children will take part from all over the country has been planned by a special organising committee led by Dr. Z. Kashmiri.

The committee has received good backing from commercial firms and service clubs and last week Dr. Kashmiri got maize meal, rice and cash donations from the Giants group of Mombasa.

The Giants got the gifts from various sources while Mrs. Surayakala Chuni Shah, one of the big-hearted Giants, donated 500 shillings.

Dr. Kashmiri hailed the aid given to the Olympics by the Giants.

Dr Kashmiri added that the participants will arrive into Mombasa on August 8.

The Guest of Honour will be Professor. Ngeno, the Minister of Basic Education.

A special plea is made to members of the public by the committee to attend in large numbers and give a moral boost to the children.

The committee also wishes to thank B.A.T., Cadbury Schweppes, Coca Cola, and the numerous other donors for their kind and generous donations towards this special and worthwhile event.

During the second half Coastal forward line changed their style of playing by keeping the ball down and later they were awarded a penalty kick netted by David Mamogo in the 40th minute to make it 1-2.

BENHAMS LEND HELPING HAND

BENHAM Holidays (Kenya) Limited is on a big move to promote football — a move which has set a tall challenge to other firms, writes Khiladi Hoshiarpuria.

After various football clubs upcountry, Benham donated sets of jerseys to various clubs at the Coast last week.

And to make the occasion more colourful and meaningful lake Warriors and Mwingo played a special friendly match to honour Benham and its general manager, Mr Francis Kihagi who at the end of the match donated the gifts in front of a huge gathering.

The match was won 2-1 by the Warriors, their scorers being Walter Anyinyino and Berard Okwaba. Mwingo's consolation goal was scored by Sammy Okwaro.

Both Mwingo and the Warriors receive jerseys from Mr. Kihagi.

Benham also donated jerseys for clubs in Taita Taveta, Lamu Kilifi and Kwale. These gifts were received from Mr. Kihagi by the Coast Provincial Director of Social Services, Mr. Wilson Wahome.

Mr. Wahome hailed Benham for their five gesture and said the gifts would go a long way in boosting the morale of the clubs.

He said Benham's shining example was worth following by other firms as football needed all the support to raise the overall standards.

A BIG BLESSING

Mr. Wahome said Benham's help to clubs was a big blessing as the firm had committed itself to the cause of football.

Mr. Kihagi said as football was the most popular sport in the country, they felt duty-bound to enhance its reputation and image.

He said Benham wanted clubs to go up the ladder through support from the commercial sector.

It is a costly venture in its part, but Benham knows too well that it is a worthwhile effort, Mr. Kihagi added.

While presenting the gifts the Warriors, Mr. Kihagi said it was a side of great gratitude and that they wanted to present Kenya once again a continental tournament.

The Warriors chairman, Lukas Wasuda said they were happy to see Benham taking leading role to help the clubs.

He said such help was badly needed by the clubs and that they wanted other firms to emulate Benham's example.

Mwingo's chairman, George Solomon, too, praised Benham for his help.

TOP PAKISTAN HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY WEEKEND MATCHES AT THE COAST

By Khiladi Hoshiarpuria

The Pakistanis have already played a number of matches in up-country and have greatly impressed the local fans. To date, they have lost only one match.

In Mombasa Afghan will take on Coast XI at the Aryan Sports Club tomorrow, July 4, 3.30 p.m.

And on Sunday the visitors will meet the Kenya Hockey Union XI at the same venue.

With hockey keepings a very low profile in Mombasa these days for lack of punch and proper system in planning, Afghan Club's visit will give the game some good boost.

Both matches should lure good crowds as they have all the ingredients for a fine entertainment.

Meanwhile Baobab got whipped by Nairobi Gymkhana in the Puma Cup tournament in Nairobi last week-end.

Baobab were beaten 4-0 by a side which also downed them 5-0 in Nakuru last month. It appears Baobab run out of steam and wits when they face Gymkhana.

However, last month Baobab was declared the best behaved team in the country by the Kenya Hockey Union. They richly deserve this award.

Baobab and Coast have won another honour as their international fullback Raphael Fernandes has been appointed K.H.U. XI captain for matches against Afghan Club.

Fernandes fully deserves this post as for quite sometime he has been the country's vice-captain under Surjit Rihal, who has now retired from international commitments.

TWO TOP KENYAN TEAMS FOR DAR

TWO prominent Nairobi football clubs — Gor Mahia and Kenya Breweries — are to play friendly matches in Tanzania this October as guests of Dar Young Africans.

This follows an invitation to the clubs in Nairobi by the Dar es Salaam team after their three-match Kenya tour. They tied twice against Gor Mahia — in Kisumu and Nairobi and lost to Kenya Breweries. Gor Mahia will play three matches and Breweries, two.

The visiting Zairean football team — Tanganyika F.C. went down 1-3 to Dar Simba in a friendly match in Dar es Salaam.

In the first match they drew 1-1.

Jayanti Shah Gives A Big Boost To Snooker

SNOOKER has become a very popular sport at Mombasa club — thanks to the initiative of Mr. Jayanti Shah, writes Khiladi Hoshiarpuria.

Mr. Shah, who is the club's snooker captain has planned various competitions, which have given the members ample opportunity to display their snooker talents.

Recently M. C. held their annual jumbles tournament for the Anil Kanji Floating Trophy.

Ray Kester and Shiraz Magon emerged the winners beating Abdalla Jaradi and M. G. Merali 78-10, 31-48, 84-47, 72-21 in the final.

At the end of the tournament Mr. Shah said they will stage the handicap tournament for Inamdar Trophy later this month.

All those interested in playing in the tourney should register their names by August 12.

Mr. Shah said they will also introduce a new event — the aggregate tournament this year.

He said competitions were being planned regularly to increase participation.

AT THE end of a ten-day athletic coaching clinic in Mombasa, the Coast Amateur Athletic Association honoured the national coach Mr. Walter Abmayr at a reception hosted at the Oceanic Hotel. Mr. Abmayr conducted the clinic and the coaches were extremely happy to gain a lot from him. The C.A.A.A. chairman, Mr. Abdalla Baghazal said Mr. Abmayr did a tremendous job and that their coaches were now well geared to pass the knowledge to the athletes. ## SIMBA SLIDE

from TONY BARROS

FIVE times national soccer champions — Dar Simba, were made to look like novices in the game after receiving a 6-1 thrashing from the East German Football Champions — Berliner Fussball Club (Dynamo). This is the highest number of goals Simba has ever conceded in an international.

The German champions who were playing minus three of their star players play one more match in Zanzibar against the Isle champions — KMKM. Earlier they won both their matches in Mozambique.

The Tanzania Youth Football team left for Oslo, Norway to participate in the International Youth Tournament amid strong criticisms about the exclusion of Zanzibari players on the squad and the high number of players from Morogoro region — the base of the team's coach Mohamed Msomali.

The Tanzanians will be among 20,000 youths from 80 countries for the Norway Cup Week introduced in 1972. Tanzania is the only African country to be invited.

Tanzania will not participate in the East and Central African Boxing Championships which opens in Lusaka this weekend due to the country's poor foreign exchange position.

Amid cheers Mr. Kimani presented the winners with the shield which was received by the Voi Captain Mr. Ephants Njuguna and a smaller runners-up shield to Wundanyi members club captain, Mr. Kimani.

SISAL F.C. STRUNG UP

WUNDANYI (K.N.A.) — A friendly football match played at the Wundanyi Sports ground in Taita Taveta District saw the Mwenge-Werugha team beat Sisal Estate Soccer team 4-3.

Mwenge-Werugha team came out in the first opening minutes to score the first goal. The Sisal team levelled the score in the fifteen minute ending the first half in a draw.

In the second half the Werugha team got a second goal in the 50th minute but the Sisal team recovered last enough to even up and score again to lead at 3-2. The Werugha team staged a brief assault on the Sisal team to score a third goal ending the game at a draw.

The referee ordered extended time and Mwenge-Werugha team scored the fourth goal before the referee blew the final whistle.

UNIFORMS GIFT

KWA-HOLA Limited F.C. from Changamwe received a duration of uniforms from Mr. Pravin R. Patel who is a prominent businessman in Mombasa. He helped the club as this is their first time to join Coast Football League in Division 4 in 1981 season.

Mr. Pravin Patel is very much interested in promoting soccer in Mombasa and the Coast as a whole.

KWALE TEAMS ON THE WIMBEND

KWALE (K.N.A.) — Kwale District Soccer League meetings following matches played last June, show great improvement for certain teams which were regarded in local football circles as mere pushovers or underdogs.

From Diani zone, the Mombasa soccer wizards, Nacet heavily defeated the pride of Lunga, Mihala F.C. reducing them to novices.

The first defeat of Mihala, at the hands of Nacet was at Lunga, where they were thrashed 3-1 and later suffered the same fate in their return match played at Ukunda.

Nacet, now leading the league with a maximum of four points and six goals from two matches.

Second in the standings, is the well-disciplined young Mombasa F.C., also from Diani with three points and three goals from two matches.

Young movers held Black 1-1 and later drowned them 2-0 in their return encounter at the Mwaroni ground. Kipa from Msambweni, also from the world, when they came down Libra 2-1 in their home having held them 1-1 earlier at Msambweni.

Kipa are now third with three points and three goals.

Fourth position are the hard-fighting Lunga Lunga and Lunga Niger F.C. and the underdog Bongwe United from Ukunda.

LUNGA LUNGA — Both teams have two points and two goals from two matches. The two teams fought out a barren draw at Lunga Lunga and drew 2-2 later at Ukunda in a match billed as one of the best in recent years.

The 'old-guard' Nyanasa team that rocked the soccer world in the early 1970s, have two points from two matches having defeated Mombasa F.C. from Msambweni in an incident-free match in

Members of Kisumu Sports Club, Coast Provincial Soccer Division Four. Tomorrow Kenya Breweries will meet Ndovu at the Police ground and the bottlers are tipped for both points.

YELLOWFIN TUNNY BEGIN RUN OFF PEMBA CHANNEL

THE annual migration of the Big Yellowfin Tuna in the off-shore water of the Pemba Channel has arrived, writes Pat Hemphill.

These big fish, varying between around 50 pounds and 150 pounds do not seem to come close to shore, and their annual migration seems to pass some 20 miles off the Coast.

Their arrival signals some of the best sport it is possible to have, for an angler.

They are very strong fish indeed and are by no means easy to catch.

THE MAYOR of Mombasa Coun. Rajab Sumba opened the 1981 Colgate Junior Sports Festival at the Shanzu Teachers' Training College mid-week after a very colourful march past led by smartly dressed 'Colgate Kids', whose music thrilled the crowds. The four-day event, in which teams from Nairobi, Kisumu, Nakuru, Eldoret, Kitale and Mombasa, are taking part in hockey, football, volleyball, netball and athletics, has once again been sponsored by Colgate Palm-Olive - who have this year gone a step further by offering a prize to every participant. Today there are more than 800 participants in the festival. The Mayor hailed the support given by Colgate Palm-Olive and urged other large firms to follow this excellent example. Coun. Sumba is seen congratulating Colgate Palm-Olive's representative Mr A.C. Ongino-Ogutu for his firm's support, at the start of the festival. Looking on is the Acting Mombasa Municipal Education Officer Mr H. M.C. Madenge.

Day The Goal-Keeper Decided To Have A Row With His Full-Back ...

M.S.C. 4-1 Young Cobra F.C.
M.S.C. 8-4 Covenant

A venomous Young Cobra soon showed plenty of bite to place the Sports Club under intense pressure, writes Carrot Head.

An early goal was the reward seemingly the first of many but it proved to be their only one.

Rusteau was concussed after colliding with the 'Cobra' keeper and played for the rest of the match with a memory relapse.

A change of half led to a change of fortune with M.S.C. gradually playing their way back into the game.

A mis-hit shot from Durston brought the equaliser and then Rusteau, still in another world, forced the ball over to make it 2-1.

One of the strangest events at the ground for a long time led to the third goal.

After an apparent argument with his defence the Cobra goalkeeper walked off the field without notifying anybody including his own team mates.

Durston also in the dark aimed another poor shot goalwards which to his delight entered the empty net.

An evening full of surprises was wrapped up with a rare goal from Bruce Khan to make it four.

Once again against Covenant, the effects of Ramadhan were showing as the Sports Club took the field with just eight players.

CORNER CHANCE

Alan Cartwright was recruited off the line for his debut and he surprisingly opened the scoring for the nine men.

A half cleared corner gave him his chance and he swivelled on a 50 cent piece to drive a majestic left shoot high into the net. Rusteau and Pocklethwaite, making a rare appearance came on then to make the number even.

Collins was almost chewing leather during some high kicking and Da Silva made it two from the resulting penalty.

Collins then looking suspiciously offside side-stepped the goalkeeper for another.

Covenant didn't drop their heads though and pulled one back to make it 3-1 at the break.

Mishit-Dursty was on the scene again to increase the lead but Undusu inspired Covenant replied once more.

DAZZLING RUN

Arif Esmail then produced the entertainment with a dazzling run and dribble, beating the keeper twice, the post, corner flag and back across the goal to give Durston the easiest of chances.

To continue the crowds amusement he then backheeled home a Da Silva drive. (Esmail will now be giving an exhibition of dribbling at the Mombasa Show whereupon he will don a baby's bib!)

Da Silva hit another long range effort to wrap it up. Some consolation for Covenant was their two late goals but by then it was all over.

BRUSSELS' UNIVERSITY TEAM FALL TO M.S.C.

M.S.C. XV just barely managed to scrape a 1-0 point win over the visiting Brussels University XV in a closely fought match played in Mombasa writes Ted Kimani.

The game produced some fantastic moves but great credit by M.S.C. three's which were repulsed by the visitors.

The first to score was Universities through Christian Josse for a corner try. This gave them a 1-0 lead.

M.S.C. immediately replied through a penalty to level the score standing at 1-1 in favour of the visitors at the interval.

In the second half, M.S.C. narrowed the margin levelling at 2-2 through another penalty but the short-lived draw as the advanced and two touchbacks by the visitors were repulsed by the referee.

Another penalty awarded to Brussels for an infringement, thereby equalising M.S.C. by 2-2.

In the dying minutes, Christian Roy (guest) broke into a scrum and dribbled the ball through but was obstructed, the full-back just before could fall on the ball.

This resulted in the penalty of the controversial game goal which gave M.S.C. victory by a mere two points at the final whistle.

All the players are asked to turn up for training at the Jamba Hotel, Mombasa, Malindi on August 22 for the friendly game against Oribis.
