DARING GUARDS RESCUE FAMILY FROM THUGS

ON SUNDAY morning March 29 1992 at 9.42 a.m., a mazda station wagon registration number KYA 873 drove into the compound of Dogra Singh on Bandari Road, Nyali.

Out jumped a heavily armed gang of four brandishing a revolver and pangas. They rushed into Mr. Singh's house which at this time of the morning was open with the family resting downstairs.

At gunpoint they demanded money from Mr. Singh which they said they knew he had in his house. He pleaded with them that he had the money upstairs and would go and get it if they would permit him.

One of the gangsters ordered him to get moving and accompanied him. On his way Mr. Singh pressed a switch to the K.K. Guards Motorola Radio Alarm System and within one-and-a-half minutes their first back-up car arrived in response to the signal.

"Hand-To-Hand"

A bitter hand-to-hand battle ensued while K.K. Guards back-up crew overpowered the three thugs in Dogra's house.

The fourth member of the gang, a look-out scout, unfortunately escaped: The gangsters' car was also seized by K.K. Guards on the arrival of a second back-up car.

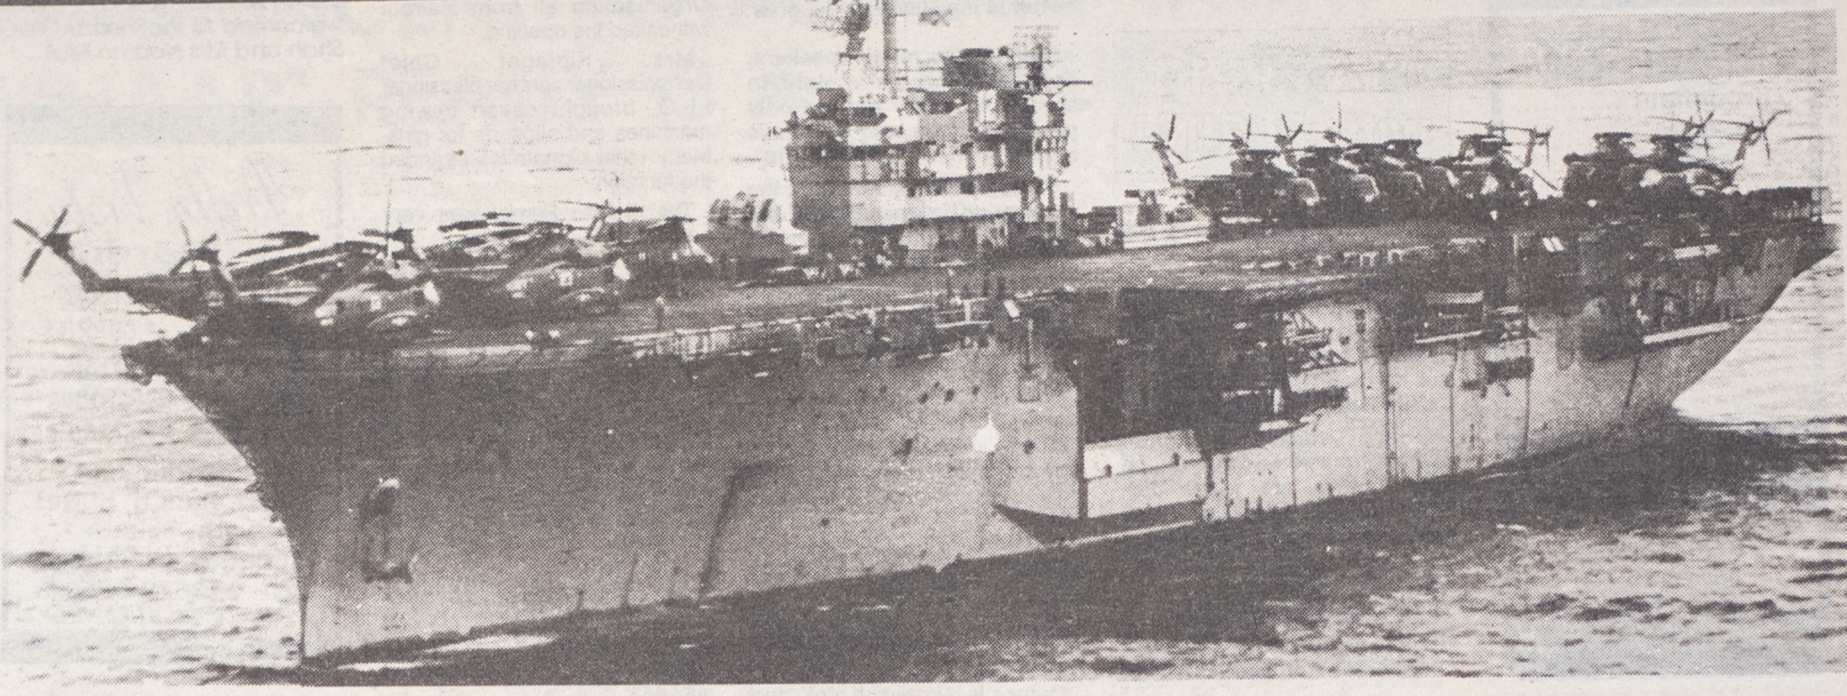

Neither Mr. Singh or any of his family was injured but K.K. Guard's Crew Commander, Johnson Imbugua, was seriously injured by panga slashes and teeth marks suffered when he struggled with the gang leader.

Notwithstanding his injuries the crew commander wrestled the revolver from the gang leader. The revolver was real and loaded though the gangster failed to use it despite threats to do so. He was obviously too terrified at the suddenness of K.K. Guards arrival.

The police were called and visited the scene. The

A GREAT OFFER FOR VIDEO VIEWERS FROM SUPER STARION ELECTRONICS

SPECIAL OFFER FOR video viewers. This is from Starion Electronics who are letting you have a K.Shs. 500/- monthly service charge only.

Towards the end of last year we told you about Starion, and since then, they are becoming a household name. Literally "household" for it is here that they never seem to fail to mend whatever is broken. Perhaps the secret is the large stock of spares they have or the swiftness in obtaining something that no one has or can get in Mombasa.

Personal examples: the iron did not work, and some "fundis" said it was an all-in-one thing and they could not open nor mend. Starion can do this for 300/- only; second example: an electrical spare part was required for our computer. No one had it in Mombasa, but Starion got it from Nairobi within two days.

They themselves must be computerized, that is all we can say.

Other items they repair are for example. Where do you think they get their equipment seen to?

In the little Starion workshop there are five technicians. One is a TV man (incidentally you can have your television repaired at your place or there in Starion after collection); another two technicians work on tape recorders and radios, while the last two had quite an assortment from toasters, to kettles, that is all household equipment.

Starion Electrics are not happy if you're not happy without your T.V. They guarantee three days' maximum on repairs, but still better is the 500/- special offer.

Starion also repair speakers, and we think we're right in stating that they are the only people on the coast who have speaker cones from 4" upto 18".

Some readers ask about the connection between Starion and Esquire Hardware Stores. The latter started in 1989, and are supplying everything in the hardware line, ironmongery and building materials, both wholesale and retail.

However, Esquire are quite well known already, and it COASTWEEK's Shopping column's intention to get over to you about the newer Starion.

You will see signboards at strategic places, but go to the shop yourself, for they are so easy to reach down in Moi Avenue. We parked almost outside.

Owner is Naresh Kotak and his secretary, Consolata, is still there. She is not only qualified, but also well-spoken and considerate.

Do ring them up on numbers 224335, 220838, 223636 and 226642.

The Guides Family was very happy to achieve their goal. The appeal was made for help and it was accepted very happily.

MAGNIFICENT ROYAL IMANI YACHT "ZINAT AL BINAAR" REALLY IS A "BEAUTY OF THE SEAS"

IT'S GOING TO BE A LITTLE MORE DIFFICULT I'd imagine, for mariners to get lost, know that we are under presumption that the Indonesian and not Ionian Sea is that which separates Greeks from the Italians. I met a Greek captain the other evening who'd been shown the miss-print, but unfortunately the poor chap took a lot of convincing that he was still in fact Greek and not in some way connected with the Far East.

The Royal Omani Yacht Zinat Al Binaar duly arrived on Friday morning and berthed alongside Number One, and as her name translates, she really is 'Beauty of the Seas'.

Built in the Sultanate of Oman and launched in 1988 to LRS + 100 Al Yacht Specifications, of 61 metres in length and 9.8 metres beam, she displaces 506.60 mt. Her height above W/L, with Yards hoisted is 42.5 metres.

Lanteen rigged and built on traditional lines of the Baghlah style, however used the more modern methods of construction. The Zinat Al Binaar is based at Miar Al Qaboos, and is presently on a training exercise tour, she will leave Mombasa tomorrow (Saturday) for Dar es Salaam, then Zanzibar before returning to Mombasa prior to her homebound voyage with her complement of 28, officers and crew inclusive.

The Sultanate of Oman, as you will of course know, to coin a phrase, lies at the junction of the routes from the Gulf to India, Red Sea and East Africa and thus has occupied and continues to occupy significant geographical and historical position at the entrance of one of the world's great waterways.

It was in partial celebration of Oman's maritime heritage that the Zinat Al Binaar was commissioned.

Unfortunately the photograph does not give her true justice, because she has some absolutely beautiful carving on either side of the bow as well as poop.

I mentioned in last week's edition of COASTWEEK that she'd be something to watch out for. She was 'Karibu', and 'karibuni tena'. While at Mombasa her needs have been taken care of by able hands of Doowell Shipping.

'Blunder' this time round wasn't. The yellow and black fibre optic cable was successfully laid by the ferry Mvita from one side of the channel to the other. Mission accomplished. In the words of T.S. Elliot 'Success if relative: It is what we can make of the mess we have made of things.'

(I believe that this is my one hundredth column, which generally average six to seven hundred words, you can work out how many words this amount to.)

27 vessels due in within the next 14 days, of which five will be naval and two passenger vessels, with the Royal Star calling twice in the fortnight.

Of the agencies in town it looks as though Spanfreight and Mackenzie Maritime will be the busiest with seven vessels each to attend to, Dodwell and Marship with five a piece, the other agencies picking up the rest.

The Limasol registered freighter ILovic arrived in on Tuesday morning with containers stacked three high above the deck. A reasonably modern vessel having been built in 1988, her sides have been abandoned having taken on an expansive rust coloured hue. It may well be that the operators do not have the intention of painting the hull until she goes into dry dock.

Coupla Als due in with the Al Raziq which should by now be in port loading a consignment of bulk soda ash and produce, she'll be followed by sister company vessel the Al Rehman due on the 3rd to discharge bagged sugar.

BULK WHEAT

Another Limassol registered vessel, the 14580 DWT General cargo Tarpon Santiago expected in on the 5th to discharge some 12000 tonnes odd of bulk wheat. She's powered by a 9000 bhp Sulzer M/E with cargo gear consisting of 2x25t SWL cranes, 6x10t SWL derricks, and a jumbo with 180 tonnes lifting capacity.

Fucaduc the locally registered tender has been busy bringing a number of channel entrance bouys in for general maintenance and a paint job.

Rather big lady due in around the 10th. She's the Total Compagnie Francaise de Navigation's 86,993 DWT Altus managed by Waller, Steckmest and Company of Norway. The Altus will discharge 75,000 tonnes crude oil at KOT.

Arabian Express which was initially scheduled to arrive on the 14th will I believe be a little delayed, for she suffered main engine failure 'up north' and was towed into Cherbourg where 'G/A' was declared and of course the salvor's want security to be lodged.

"UNDER ARREST"

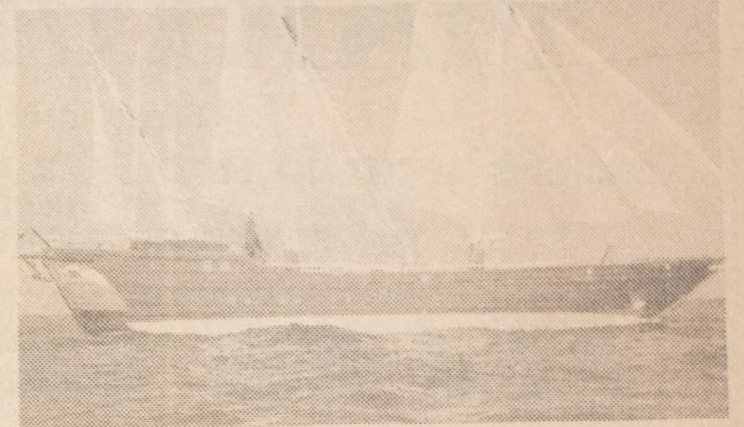

I notice that the same bunch of vessels remain 'under arrest' in port. Judging by the length of time they've been under arrest it might be said that they're 'lifters'. I think it's a shame that otherwise good vessels are left to rot.

Presently at Amgeco, is the 30 year old, Honduran registered 1600 DWT vessel Caernarvon. She's just about the right sort of tonnage for running relief supplies to the war stricken country North of the border. As perhaps a matter of interest Caernarvon is a county town of Caernarvonshire no less, and noted for its famous castle and town walls started by Edward I in 1284. The first English prince of Wales was introduced to the people from this castle.

Paola the Liberian registered RoRo General cargo vessel is expected to arrive over the weekend. A versatile vessel with two quarter stern doors and ramps, three holds, three tween decks and TEU capacity of 191, of which 140 20' can be slotted in the centre hold, with the remaining 51 20' on the centre deck.

She last visited Kilindini quite a while ago so it will be nice to see an old 'face' again.

Like I mentioned earlier on, there will be two cruise liners visiting. The Royal Star with which we should by now be well acquainted having operated out of Kilindini for some time now.

The second luxury cruiser will be the Renaissance Two, built at the Cantiere Navale Ferrari in 1990 as were her three sisters, with the exception of the Renaissance which was launched a year earlier in 1989, she's registered in Roma, whereas the others are registered at Palermo.

Talking of cruise liners that operate on a frequent basis from Kilindini, I wonder what happened to the Ambassador I for she in the not too distant past used to operate weekly, cum ten days cruises operated under the auspices of Suli Suli African Cruises, and according to their brochures, advertising a weekly schedule from December 1991 through April 1992.

I haven't seen her this year, so can only imagine that this seasons cruise itinerary has been abandoned.

Actually, come to think of it, I haven't seen any official publication giving notice that the intended cruise schedule was abandoned, and why, especially considering that there might have been a number of bona fide tourists and others who might have been interested in taking up the cruise, only to be disappointed.

On the international front. A potentially dangerous situation befell the roro ferry Haveleta couple of Sundays ago.

"FREAK WAVE"

She was on her way from Cork to Rostock in France, when at around midnight was hit by a freak wave which caused two trucks to break their lashings and resulted in the Havelet taking a 30 degree list to port, a list of this severity leaves very little reserve before a capsizes.

The 175 passengers aboard might have faced very different circumstances had more of the lorries or cargo broken loose. Havelet was refitted a year ago at a cost of around two million pounds, however there was no report that she'd been brought up to Solas 1990 standards.

In a meeting of the Maritime Safety Committee a year ago it was clearly agreed that existing ferries had inadequate sub-division reserves against problems of this nature, and that ferries should be brought up to Solas '90 standards within five years.

Japan is seeking international aid to support a plan to scrap and re-cycle larger tankers. The country is determined to boost the demolition market and replace three quarters of the world's VLCC fleet in this way.

Meanwhile an Oslo ship broker has launched a second scheme worth 740 million dollars to subsidize the scrapping of 100 VLCC's.

The scheme covers owners, finance houses and insurance interests and would involve the buying of vessels at USD 200 per tonne, and selling them to scrap yards at half the price. Beats me too!

Ninety Alliance Hotels' Staff Show Way To Learn First Aid Assistance

ONE OF THE highlights of the Annual General Meeting of the Kenya Red Cross Society's Kwale Branch was to present ninety employees of Alliance Hotels on the south coast with 'Initial First Aid Certificates' which gives them a basic 'know how' about dealing in emergencies with deep cuts, burns, insect bites and giving artificial respiration to those rescued from drowning.

Employees were from Jadini and Safari beach Hotels and Africana Sea Lodge.

The AGM took place in the conference room at Jadini and Mrs Rachel Mzera, chairman of the two year old Kwale Branch, was happy to announce that the Kwale County Council had allocated land for a Red Cross complex at Diani which will comprise the branch HQ, a centre for primary health care and First Aid Training Room.

Funds are presently being sought.

Said the chairman 'we are hoping that our Red Cross HQ will do its best to find a donor so that the project can go ahead this year'.

She revealed that the branch had been operating under very difficult conditions. It had no premises and the monthly branch meeting either took place in a classroom or under a mango tree.

Said the chairman 'I am, therefore, sincerely grateful to Jadini Beach cover as many primary and secondary schools, youth polytechnics and hotels in the south coast as possible'.

She concluded by not only thanking committee members but managers of south coast hotels who have continued to support the branch both financially and in kind.

"THANK YOU"

There was also a 'thank you' to the District Commissioner, Kwale 'who has made it possible for the branch to acquire land for its Ukunda project', as well as to Mr and Mrs A.A. Molu of the Red Cross, Mombasa branch, for their continued support.

The AGM was also attended by Hannington Ajwang, District Development Officer, Kwale, representing the D.C., as well as the Molus.

MERCK, SHARP AND DOHME ORGANISE NYALI SEMINAR

MERCK SHARP and Dohme of America, the leading pharmaceutical company in the world, as part of its on-going educational programme has held two symposiums in Kenya on 'H2 Receptor Antagonists - Their Therapeutic Use in Related Diseases'.

One was held at Nyali Beach Hotel and attended by one hundred doctors from the Coast.

It was addressed by Walter Schunack, a Professor in Medicine and Chemistry at the Free University, West Berlin, who was accompanied by R. Hojjei, the company's Product Manager and M. Ngira, Country Manager.

In an interview before the symposium Professor Schunack revealed that this was his first visit to Kenya, but not his last.

He said it had been a wonderful experience to see the Nairobi National Park and Lake Nakuru.

Adding 'I hope to combine my next visit for scientific purposes with a vacation and bring my family here'.

Mamba Village To Host "Eating Competition ..."

THE TRAVERNS Restaurant and Tam Tam promotions Mombasa, have for the first time organised an "Eating Competition" to be held at the Mamba Village on April 4, 1992. Already entries have been received from different parts of Coast Province mostly, from Malindi.

The Traverns and Mamba Village Restaurants chefs are busy working on the Big Menu to feed the Eating Giants of Coast Province. "This will really be the hit of the moment", says one contestant.

The music and entertainment will be under "Danny Boy" as many disco lovers call him. Cash prizes will be awarded for the three top Eaters who will eat the most food. Menu: Rice, curry, spaghetti, khima, pizza, pint of milk, big thirst one bottle, one banana and ice cream.

Government Need To Explain Policy Moves Following Negative Overseas Press Reports

 might be considering postponing coming to Kenya until things are more settled.
 Members felt that a much quicker response is needed to such damaging press reports to explain what steps the Kenya government is taking to beef up security in game parks and the rest of the country.

It was thought that a National Tourism Board, as already recommended by Kenya's tourist industry, could speedily handle such public relations work by monitoring the international press.

The meeting heard that following incidents in the Maasai Mara, tour operators had received a number of cancellations and are presently receiving many 'faxed' messages asking if it is dangerous to come to Kenya.

It was noted that the more up-market holidaymaker, in particular, is presently very cautious.

Kenya has not experienced a very good 'high' season, as hitherto, this being initially attributed to the economic recession in Europe then later being compounded by fears over security.

It was reported there had been 'more than 10 per cent drop in tourism and that hardly any new bookings are coming in for May, June and July.

However, it was felt that tourism would pick up again if there are no further attacks on tourists.

While the coast has not experienced many actual cancellations, new bookings are slow in coming in.

Consequently, the industry is worried, particularly as tourism is Kenya's no. one earner of foreign exchange.

It was felt that election fever in England and Italy may also be contributory factors.

The MCTA committee heard that many tour operators and hoteliers had returned from the International Tourism Bourse in Berlin with the feeling that they are 'facing hard times'.

It was noted that while the Minister for Tourism, the Hon. Noah Katana Ngala, had been able to re-assure many international tour operators on the question of security and the action government is taking, it was not until every travel agent is so informed that this assurance can be passed onto clients deciding where to spend their next holiday.

As far as the German market is concerned 'there has been no visible increase in bookings for summer', this being considered 'alarming'.

Said a MCTA member 'the situation is being closely monitored tackled in countries which tourists visit in large numbers.

Said a member 'we must be prepared to meet the requirements of the international tourism industry in this respect for it is prepared to put more pressure on countries which delay in giving an assurance that the environment is being protected'.

One example given was that 'Spain is working like mad to get its sewerage system in order'.

As far as Europe is concerned, it is Germany which is leading in educating her people about protecting the environment. It is from that country that Kenya continues to receive the most tourists.

It was noted that 'if Germans coming here find there is not the same concern about the environment, they may not come again'.

MCTA as advised that international tour operators now have a Director of the Environment and that some hotels display an 'Environment Friendly' symbol.

There is an eventual danger of hotels being 'cut out' by international tour operators if they do not qualify for such a symbol.

The MCTA chairman, Zul Harunani, said that the association is also concerned about the environment and educating the industry about its protection.

"Tourism will pick up again ... if there are no further attacks on tourists in the game parks" by tour operators here'. Adding 'the tourist industry is very happy that the Kenya government took immediate action in sending the Kenya Wildlife Service to help with security in the Maasai Mara as, in our opinion, KWS has proved it can do a good job'.

The meeting also heard that tourists are now finding Kenya 'expensive' and that there are cheaper places to visit.

One of the major points brought up at ITB concerned environmental issues and how they are being

SWISSAIR Launches McDonnell MD11 On East African Service

SWISSAIR HAS introduced the world's most modern passenger aircraft - the McDonnell MD-11 - to its East Africa route.

The first MD-11 ever to land in Kenya touched down at Jomo Kenyatta International Airport on Tuesday, heralding in a new era of technical excellence and passenger comfort.

The MD-11 is the most spacious long-range tri-jet in the skies, with extra room around and in front of the seats and in the aisles - even in the overhead storage compartments.

Swissair has also changed the seating specifications to make the cabins even roomier. In Business Class, for example, the normal 2+3+2 seat configuration has been replaced by a 2+2+2 seating arrangement.

Passengers can also enjoy a new high-tech audio visual system. The MD-11 is being introduced to Swissair's weekly service of three non-stop flights from Nairobi to Zurich.

The MD-11 replaces the DC-10 which has been the backbone of Swissair's long-haul fleet for several years.

The MD-11 is almost six metres longer than its predecessor. It seats 236 passengers in Swissair configuration, 15 more than the DC-10, and it carries about 20 tonnes of cargo, around 30 per cent more than the aircraft it replaces.

A major advance is also seen in the MD-11's state-of-the-art cockpit, which is totally conceived for two-crew operation.

By mid-1992, Swissair will have taken delivery of 12 MD-11s at a total investment of two billion Swiss francs (Shs. 40 billion).

With the arrival of the 12 MD-11s, the airline's average fleet age will drop to a mere 5.8 years, one of the lowest in the world.

NEW GENERATION

The MD-11 cockpit has been designed for a two-person crew. In the cockpit, too, the MD-11 marks a new generation of civil aircraft technology, as a quick glance inside reveals. The rows of dials of the DC-10 have disappeared, replaced by six large polychromatic screens.

All information is assessed by the aircraft's systems according to priority and situation, and presented via the screens to the crew.

Navigation, too, is state-of-the-art. The aircraft's computers calculate the best possible heading and rates of climb and descent, and feed this information to the autopilots, which respond accordingly.

ASSISTANT MINISTER FOR TOURISM and Wildlife, Mr. Moody Awori, toasts the arrival of Swissair's MD-11 with Swiss Ambassador, Mr. Armin Kamer as they relax in the spacious First Class cabin. Looking on is Swissair area manager, Mr. Walter Kiener (left), and Captain Gerhard Fritschi who flew the aircraft on its maiden flight to Kenya.

WE ALL PLAN TO go on holidays at some stage or another.

For most Kenyans, that is restricted to going "shags" and keeping the wazees happy.

One might even be tempted to do some work on the shamba but for a lot of people it pays to throw around some cash and let one of the local guys earn a living.

Kenyans cannot as yet think of having holidays abroad...at least most Kenyans that is.

There is this thing called foreign exchange restriction that stands in the way.

If one saw it fit to try and visit say the Seychelles, they would have a hard time convincing the officers involved in controlling the meagre foreign exchange in Kenya that they should be allowed to take dollars and travel.

The country can ill afford Kenyans visiting other countries on holiday even if they have enough Kenya shillings to be able to convert and do so.

I wonder why the situation has been allowed to stay that way for so long.

There are a lot of people these days who would like to go and see other countries and they cannot unless they are going to do "business".

Alcohol ... And Other Medicines

That is the only way that one can wangle any forex out of these sharp eyed bankers.

we may think the grass is green on the other side but is it?

Is it worth spending money to go somewhere just to convince

PATRICK OBATH

one self that Kenya is the best country to be in?

Some people think so.

Kachumbari has some fancy holiday ideas gleaned from spending a bit too much time outside Kenya.

One of the zanier ideas for a holiday is to offer oneself as a guinea pig for some medical studies in a special camp made for a very specific purpose.

The one Kachumbari visited was somewhere in the south west of England and from what he found out is it due to close soon since there is not enough subsidy to keep it running.

The place is actually researching into the common cold.

Yes the common cold!

This holiday is very simple. The research guy need human beings to infect with the common cold in order to study the virus and gain some kind of understanding as to how it operates.

The people who go to this place will be purposely exposed to the virus to see whether they get infected or not and should they be then they will be studied to try and understand what it is that happens during the course of the infection.

Those not affected will be studied as well to see what it is they have that has, at least for that instance in time, made them immune to the virus.

The place is quite well appointed with people having their own rooms with TVs and videos and the normal creature comforts that one would expect.

Food is brought to you in your isolation "ward" by the staff of the place.

Communication with your neighbours is by shouting across the space separating the cottages.

The one sure thing is that the people who are really sociable and like talking end up leaving the place with a severely strained voice box.

The doctors and research fellows visit regularly and have to come into the isolation wards properly done up so that they cannot pass infection from one place to another within the complex.

This place is now about to close because there is not enough subsidy to allow the place to run like it is accustomed to.

Most people who spent their holidays in this camp actually paid for the privilege of catching a cold but the amount was far from what was necessary to run such an institution.

What people were paying for was really so they could boast of having been a unique guinea pig and also had a different kind of holiday in the process.

This will now not be available although this place had been a popular holiday spot for nearly forty years.

What kept me wondering when I heard this story from Kachumbari was how the people who drove themselves there would get back home if they had not been cured.

MEDICATION

I presume that most of you are aware that the medicines used to suppress the level of suffering resulting from infection by the common cold virus contains a certain level of alcohol or some other soporific material.

If one would not get cured they are likely to be on this type of medication and may be slightly drowsy.

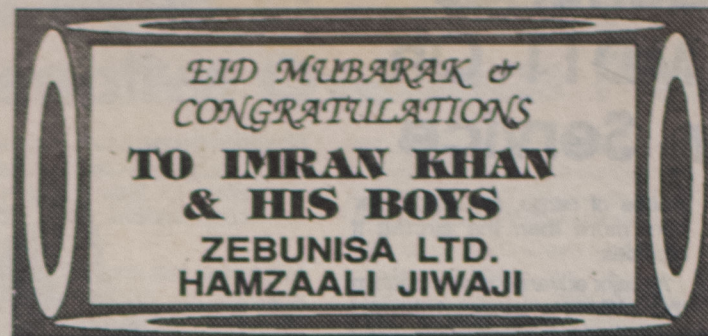

It could open up a can of worms.

What would happen if you were stopped by a cop and they decided to test you for drugs.

What a day it would be if one would be above the legal limit as a result of taking such medication.

It would mean that those medicines would have to have warning labels similar to those found on other dangerous substances.

As Kachumbari says, whoever thought that catching a cold could be so much fun ... and being treated could end up with one committing an offence!

ONCE AGAIN TODAY, Muslims throughout the Islamic world will mark the last Friday of the holy month of Ramadhan and expect to celebrate Iddul Fitr as soon as the new moon is sighted.

Iddul Fitr marks the end of the blessed month of fasting the Ramadhan. It is celebrated as thanksgiving to God for successfully fulfilling the fourth Pillar of Islam - Saum.

Idd means a day of happiness and merriment for Muslims. Muslims have been celebrating this occasion since 623 A.D. when the holy Prophet declared it as a day of joy and thanking Allah.

MUSLIMS WISH "EID MUBARAK"

Celebrating Idd-Ul-Fitr As Soon As The New Moon Is Sighted ...

the morning. All Muslims leave their jobs and businesses to join the prayer which is held on large open ground or a big mosque.

Hundreds of Muslims come in their best and newest garments to pray. Immediately after the prayers, people greet and embrace one another to express their happiness.

After leaving the prayer ground most people go to visit their family.

The day is spent in alm-giving to the poor and needy, visiting relatives, neighbours, friends and exchanging greetings and gifts.

In the evening people sit in their homes cosily and recollect the occasions of the day.

At this time in most homes special dinners are arranged for guests for family members. Happiest of all are the children. This day is the day they wait for the whole year.

SWEETS AND NEW CLOTHES

Dressed in new clothes, their pockets are filled with sweets and coins of money. At homes, women have a busy time preparing special dishes. "No dieting today please" says the lady of the house to her guests.

Special Idd Baraza are held over the country in which the Muslims as well as Non-Muslims participate wholeheartedly.

Thus, it provides the country

men with a chance to strengthen the ties of brotherly love and national unity.

On this occasion every Muslim is supposed to pay Zakatul-Fitr to cleanse himself of any sin he might have committed during the fasting period.

Zakatul-Fitr is given to the poor and the needy to enable them to take part in the celebration. Its rate is two and a half kilogrammes of staple food in the town.

But it's highly recommended to give cash (money) equivalent of the prescribed quantities of food on standard price.

This is because it will help the poor to reduce hundreds of kilos of food accumulating at home given by others.

With cash in hand it becomes easier for one to decide what to buy for Idd.

The Zakatul-Fitr can be paid at anytime between the first day of Ramadhan and just before Idd prayer. But after that it will be considered as any other Sadaqa (charity).

So while marking the last Friday of Ramadhan we should ask ourselves "Does the end of Ramadhan signify that the period of doing good is over and now should we go back to our evil ways?"

"Are we going undo all what we have done during Ramadhan?" The idea is not that we should accumulate all the virtue and goodness during this month and then waste it and fritter it away in the coming eleven months. If we do this then Ramadhan would have been of no use to us.

To all I say Saum - Maqbul and Idd Mubarak.

SEVERIN LEGT GRÖßTEN WERT AUF UMWELTSCHUTZ
 Das saubere Meer hat wieder eine Zukunft

EINE EINZIGARTIGE umweltfreundliche Kläranlage, die erste dieser Art an der Nordküste von Mombasa, wurde in der Severin Sea Lodge am 15. Februar 1992 vom Minister für Umwelt und Bodenschätze, Hon. Philip Leakey, offiziell eröffnet.

Erstmals hat ein Hotel in dieser Gegend wirkungsvolle Maßnahmen ergriffen und versucht, mittels einer modernen Kläranlage Umweltprobleme zu lösen. Die meisten Leute ahnen gar nichts von dieser tickenden Zeitbombe an der kenianischen Küste, entstanden durch unkontrollierte, unprofessionelle Abwasser- und Abfallbeseitigung, die das ganze System total überlastet. Diese unverantwortliche Handlungsweise wird in nächster Zukunft nicht wiedergutzumachende Auswirkungen auf das gesamte Ökosystem der Nordküste und das vorgelagerte Riff haben.

Das Projekt, entworfen von Herrn Joachim Zarnack aus Deutschland, errichtet von der Baufirma Premji Ganji Ltd. und beraten von Triad Architects, Nairobi, erhielt volle Anerkennung von Dr. Iwald, dem Umweltpartnern von TUI - einer der größten Reiseveranstalter Europas. Seine Aufgabe besteht darin, über Umweltprobleme zu berichten, die mit dem Tourismus zusammenhängen, und seine Ansichten und Empfehlungen abzugeben, ob die Tourismuseinrichtungen für die von seiner Firma geschickten Besucher sicher sind.

Die Anlage, die über Shs 11 Millionen kostete, wurde für eine größere Kapazität ausgelegt und kann mehr bewältigen, als Severin

Das Hotel hat auch Geschichte gemacht, als es als erstes im ganzen Lande einen vollamtlichen Umweltberater einstellte. Mr. J. Mutamia wurde für diese Schlüsselposition engagiert, wo er nicht nur die neue Kläranlage, sondern auch alle anderen Aktivitäten des Hotels im Hinblick auf Umweltschutz überwachen wird.

Mr. Muthamias Studie über die Umwelt des Hotels erforderte chemische Analysen des Brunnenwassers, das im Hotel verwendet wird, Prüfung der Härte und Erkennen eventueller Anzeichen organischer Verschmutzung. Gleichzeitig wird Mr. Muthamia die Wasserversorgung im Hotel überprüfen wie auch ihre Leistungsfähigkeit, so daß es in Zukunft einfacher ist, ein neues System zu entwerfen, ein Leck und andere Beschädigungen an den Leitungsrohren zu entdecken und auf diese Weise Kosten zu sparen.

Mr. Muthamia hat auch in der Nähe des Galana Steak House das Wasser eines Brunnens untersuchen lassen, das sich als von guter Qualität erwies. Wie er sagte, soll dort bald ein Brunnen gegraben werden, wo hydrologische Messungen ergaben, daß in einer Tiefe von 12 bis 15 m süßwasserhaltiges Gestein vorhanden ist.

Mr. Muthamia hat dem Personal der Severin Sea Lodge vorgeschlagen, die Abfälle aufzuteilen in organische und nichtorganische Stoffe, und bei der Aussortierung des Mülls auf peinliche Sauberkeit zu achten.

Er hatte ferner Besprechungen mit dem Management des Neptune Beach Hotels nebenan über die Notwendigkeit separater Abfallbeseitigung.

Mr. Muthamia hat überdies eine Studie in Angriff genommen über die chemische Zusammensetzung von Wasch- und Reinigungsmitteln, die in der Wäscherei verwendet werden, in bezug auf ihre Auswirkung auf die Umwelt, vor allem was Phosphate betrifft.

Wasserleitungspläne und Diagramme der Severin Sea Lodge wurden angefertigt mit Instruktionen für den Fall, wenn die Wasserversorgung ausfällt. Dadurch wird sichergestellt, daß immer Wasser im Hotel zur Verfügung steht. Anweisungen wurden herausgegeben zur separaten Aufteilung organischer und nichorganischer Abfälle mit Vorschlägen zur Müllbeseitigung, die die Umwelt nicht belasten.

Im Laufe der Zeit wird dieses neue Projekt die Umwelt verbessern, so daß die Nordküste für Touristen noch attraktiver, und auf jeden Fall gesünder sein wird.

Goldmedaille für den Koch im Norfolk Hotel

DER 27JÄHRIGE KOCH Silas Onyango kehrte aus London zurück mit einer Gold- und zwei Bronzemedallien, die er an der 1992 Hotel-Olympiade - einem der bedeutendsten internationalen kulinarischen Wettbewerbe, an welchem Köche aus aller Welt teilnehmen - gewonnen hatte.

Er war der einzige Kandidat aus Kenia, der mit Köchen aus Europa, USA und Australien in Wettstreit trat. Peter Griffith, der Direktor des Salon Culinare, überreichte Silas Onyango anlässlich der öffentlichen Preisverteilungsfeier in London die drei Medallien und drei Diplome.

"Es ist eine großartige Leistung, einen Preis an der Hotel-Olympiade zu erringen," sagte Eamon Mullan, Chief Executive Chef des Norfolk Hotels, der Silas nach London begleitete.

"Während 30 Minuten arbeitete Silas bei stärkster Konzentration vor 300 kritischen Sachverständigen, Presseleuten und Filmteams, von allen Seiten mit Scheinwerfern beleuchtet und von Spiegeln umgeben, damit alle seine Bewegungen ständig kontrolliert werden konnten. Sein Erfolg ist auch eine Ehre für das Norfolk Hotel und für Kenia, und Silas hat sich damit international als ein Koch von Format profiliert."

Als sechstes von sieben Kindern wurde Silas in Nairobi geboren. Er ging bis zum "O Level" Abschluß zur Schule und kam vor drei Jahren zum Norfolk Hotel, ohne jegliche praktische Berufskenntnisse. Sein Handwerk erlernte er in diesem Hotel.

Ende 1991 gewann er den internationalen Preis am Nationalen Tourismusbewerb im Kenya Utalii College: ein Rückflugticket nach Südafrika.

LONDON

Nach seiner Rückkehr aus London gratulierte ihm der Direktor und General Manager des Norfolk Hotels, Richard Kimenyi, der Silas im Namen des Hotels einen "Willkommens-Scheck" über Shs 5000.- überreichte.

GERMAN PARLIAMENTARIAN MR. W. LANDAU is seen receiving a walking stick from the Mayor Mr. Kupalia while the town treasurer Mr. E. Karani looks on.

MALINDI MAYOR LAUDS GERMAN CITY OF GROSS

MALINDI MAYOR COUNCILLOR Morris Kupalia has commended authorities from the City of Gross Gerau from Germany for sponsoring the Shs 3.5 million for the Malindi Municipal Harambee Clinic.

He urged for greater co-operation between Kenya and Germany noting that apart from bringing great amounts of foreign exchange as tourists they had also shown their mindfulness to the welfare of others in health.

The Mayor made the remarks at "La Cappanninna De Camillo" restaurant during a lavish dinner hosted for a powerful delegation from Gross Gerau region in Germany recently.

Authorities of Gross Gerau are the main sponsors of the clinic nearing completion and have contributed over Shs 22 million in the past.

The Mayor also commended the Rotary Club of Malindi for assisting the clinic to receive various medical equipment worth over Shs 2.5 million from Italian Rotarians.

The Dinner at "La Capanninna Di Camillo" was hosted in honour of the group which undertook a 10 day tour under which they toured Municipal projects and assured that they would continue to fund a number of these projects.

PARLIAMENTARIAN

The group was led by a German parliamentarian Mr. Wilhelm Landau and said they appreciated the role being played by the Municipality in serving the community. Mr. Landau expressed satisfaction with the clinic progress.

The dinner was attended by councillors and a number of senior officials of the council who included the town clerk Mr. G. Mjomba and the town treasurer Mr. Edward Karani.

New "Martini" Happy Hour Enjoyed At Nyali Beach

MARTINI NOT ONLY sponsored this year's Safari Rally but at the same time brought great joy to many 'Happy Hour' fans at hotels and restaurants by inviting them to sample some of the delicious cocktails that can be made from their products.

All proved extremely popular, as well as the 'Lucky Dip'. It introduced guests to a versatile range of cocktails and in great demand was "Primavera" with Asti Spumante, described as the 'Champagne of Italy', Martini Dry, cordial and crushed strawberries.

It took place at Nyali Beach Hotel at the pool bar. There were blue Martini sun umbrellas and aprons for the staff while the 'Martini' Gals' Pippa Harvey and Jackie Obarie in their smart Martini 'T' shirts found Happy Hour fans most responsive to these 'free' and delicious cocktails.

Among them were Geoffrey and Sheryl Nelson from London who are spending over two months at Nyali Beach Hotel - their tenth holiday there.

ALLIANCE HOTELS TO SPONSOR GOLFPLAY

GOLFERS ENJOY RAISING money for charity by participating in their favourite sport and this year the K.L.G.U. Charity Greensomes on Saturday April 18 will be sponsored at Nyali Golf Club by Alliance Hotels.

Spectators at the coast were generally very well behaved, but there were some unfortunate stone-throwing incidents reported by the late drivers, encountered in the Taita Hills. It is only lucky that none of the drivers was hurt, but some of the cars lost side windows and suffered severe dents.

The Safari Rally has been and gone and those involved in helping with the organisation can relax for a few months until David Morgan starts preparing another route for next year. It is only a pity that the Rally is no longer over Easter weekend, as both the publicity and the spectator involvement was definitely less than before.

ON FORM ELIZABETH WILSON SWEEPS HANDICAP TROPHY AT THE NYALI GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB

TANZANIA STARS TO TWIN IN MOMBASA

PAN AFRICAN FOOTBALL Club of Dar es Salaam, Tanzania have established a soccer "relationship" with Black Panther Football Club of Mombasa. The two clubs have decided to invite each other immediately after they complete their league assignments this season.

Pan African is a National Division Two side trying to win a place in next year's Superleague. The Tanzanians have featured in the Superleague as well as the Africa Cup of Cup Winners tournament twice.

Panther made soccer history early 1980's when they emerged from nowhere to qualify for the Superleague. They are now fighting hard to return to the Big-League soccer. Our sports correspondent Abdulrahman Shariff will give you more information about the two clubs in next Friday's COASTWEEK. Never miss your copy!

FOR THE SIXTH year running the Ladies' Handicap Trophy at Nyali Golf and Country Club was sponsored by Vishnu Dhutia of Micron Limited writes Greenkiller.

There were twenty two entries in all and Elisabeth Wilson (handicap 13) and Rukhsana Mohamedali (handicap 23) emerged as the two finalists.

Rukhsana has been playing well recently and Elisabeth knew she would have a tough match. The final was played last Sunday and the match was ably refereed by Lady Captain Yvonne Edge.

It was an extremely hot afternoon and the course was probably at its driest. The lies on the fairway were not always favourable but the greens were in good condition albeit slightly slow.

Elisabeth, who was a finalist in 1989, was giving Rukhsana eight strokes and had to play a tight game. It was a good match, both players were putting well but pars on the eighth and ninth holes for Elisabeth gave her a lead of 3 up at the turn.

Rukhsana put up a fight and won the eleventh and twelfth holes but after some erratic putting on the thirteenth by Rukhsana, Elisabeth was three up again. She won the fourteenth and was home and dry on the fifteenth having won the match 4/3, being only nine over par at the time.

This was a dream come true for Elisabeth who has been looking forward to winning this title for some years. Well done Elisabeth.

Following this match a subsidiary event was played, sporting a field of 18 players. The scores were poor except for three outstanding ones. Jane Smyth was the overall subsidiary winner with an excellent score of 40 points, runner up was Amanda Stokes with 38 points.

Kiran Patel also played well with a gross score of 31.

Full results: Ladies Handicap Trophy: Winner: Mrs. E. Wilson 4/3 and Runner up: Mrs. R. Mohamedali. Subsidiary competition: Winner: Mrs. J. Smyth 40 points and Runner up: Mrs. A. Stokes 38.

WINNER of the Ladies' Handicap Trophy at the Nyali Golf And Country Club was Elisabeth Wilson, seen (left) with Lady Captain Yvonne Edge and Runner-Up Ro Mohamedali.

Voluntary Support Assured Success Of This Year's "Martini Safari" Rally

THE BEHIND-THE scenes organisation required for an international event such as the Martini Safari Rally is astonishing in the detail and the commitment. This is all the more laudable, as it is nearly all volunteers who do the work.

At the Coast Mrs. Sue Williamson was the Rally Chairperson, who co-ordinated all the personnel and activity necessary with the volunteers, the police, the P.C.'s office, the D.C.'s office, the Mayor, Shanzu Teachers Training College, the Fire Brigade, the organisations who supported the rally with equipment and facilities, liaising with Safari Rally HQ in Nairobi.

Sue has been involved in the Safari Rally for many years as a supporter of her husband David Williamson, Factory Manager at

A.V.A., who is a well-known navigator and this year navigated for Ian Duncan in the Toyota Celica. These two local lads did exceptionally well, especially considering the car was a private entry, with some assistance from Toyota service team, if it did not inconvenience the main team members. In fact it was essentially these service restrictions that prevented Duncan and Williamson from performing better.

Sue was assisted at the Coast by her Coast Safari Committee, notably Dick Chater, who devoted a lot of time and effort to helping organise the Shanzu Control and HQ. Mirza Rajan was Controller Co-ordinator and Juma Ondatto Police Liaison, amongst others. The Principal and staff of Shanzu Teachers College were very helpful
