AIMING TO BE THE 'AIRLINE OF CHOICE' IN AFRICA

Kenya Airways Flying Higher!

KENYA AIRWAYS is today the leading regional Carrier operating from its very competitive JKIA Hub in Nairobi.

Against the background of its impressive profitability the company achieved last financial year, the in-doubt and the doubting Thomases alike are undoubtedly convinced that the goals the Company has set for itself are attainable, namely:

- To achieve the highest standards of excellence commensurate with the best in class
- To be the Airline of choice in Africa.
- To connect Africa and the world through the Nairobi Hub.
- To achieve consistent levels of profitability, recognising the needs and expectations of customers, shareholders, employees, partners and the community.

Mombasa witnessed the replay of Kenya Airways' goals through a Cargo Workshop in which their recently appointed Commercial Director was the guest speaker.

Mr. Bram Steller and his strong cargo team from Nairobi assisted by the local KQ organisation made a presentation which will take long to forget using the modern methods of Power Point.

Special Report By Correspondent

Mr. Steller took the audience which comprised of Cargo veterans, officials from KPA and KAA, Shippers and Agents through the Company's schedule and expansion plans.

He brought out very clearly through graphs the

SAVING MILLIONS ON POWER BILLS!

NOT TO be defeated by escalating costs of electricity and water, Severin Sea Lodge, Bamburi, has over the past year been busily engaged on a KShs. 23 million project which, hopefully, will now start bearing fruit in the saving of at least 20 per cent on monthly energy bills.

Explained Andy Stuart 'the contract for this project was signed with Mahyer and Wolframe the day I took over as Managing Director of Severin Sea Lodge.

Also involved have been Helmut Gunther, a Consultant, and the hotel's Technical Manager, David McConnell.

With electricity charges soaring by about 100 per cent over the past two years, plus a further increase of 20 per cent in the offing, also the cost of water jumping from KShs. 45/- to KShs. 95/- per cubic metre, we realised we cannot operate a hotel with these kind of energy costs.

So we looked at areas where savings might be made finding these mainly to be on electricity and water.

SEVERIN SEA LODGE PLANNING FOR LARGE CUTS IN ELECTRICITY COSTS

Said Mr. Stuart 'most of the completed work on this project was only commissioned at the beginning of September hence we have not yet managed to finalise our calculations, but are hoping for at least a 20 per cent saving on energy.'

It is undoubtedly an ingenious cost saving exercise with much expertise and hard work going into it. Giving details Mr. Stuart said 'we rely on mains water from Mzima and Sabaki.

We were having a consumption rate of 1800 litres per person a day, which, according to international statistics, should be in the region of 250 litres.

So we brought in a Consultant to investigate and advise.

As a result the consumption rate has been reduced to 950 litres per person a day.

However, this is still far too high and our efforts to reduce this further will continue.

Explaining how the present reduction had been effected he said it had been done in two ways, but mainly through bringing back water from the sewage treatment plant.

Here he mentioned that SSL is proud of the fact that in the early 90s it was the first on Kenya's north coast to have such a plant.

Said Mr. Stuart water from this plant goes through a series of ponds where hyacinth grow then being filtered before its return to the hotel compound to be stored and chlorinated.

However, before being used for the gardens and ponds it goes through a carbonating filter to remove the chlorine.

SSL stands on a site of about 10 acres and all its recycled water is now being used for the gardens.

In order of priority it first goes to its Severin Bush Trail, fish ponds and then gardens.

Mr. Stuart continued 'we then turned our attention to reducing the high consumption of fresh mains water.

Here a little plastic filter, called a 'flow controller' was found of great use.

He explained 'many people get confused between the meaning

'Swahili Cultural Festival' Success

THOUSANDS of Coast residents participated in the 'Swahili Cultural Festival' which took place in the Mombasa Old Town late Saturday afternoon.

Large crowds followed the procession, enjoyed the typical Swahili cuisine and witnessed a rare selection of traditional Swahili dances, singing and poetry recital.

Festival chairman Mr. Mohamed Ahmed Daud commented.

"For the first time we are holding this function in the coast province.

"The definite purpose of this is to revive our Swahili Culture, which is very rich and has contributed so much to African culture.

"Our new generation can learn about their heritage here in Mombasa, which is where many of their great grandfathers came from, and thus a reason why we are holding such a function in the Old Town.

'O PEOPLE of Imaan! Siyam (fasting) has been ordained for you just as it was ordained for those before you so that you attain taqwa! (Quran)

Siyam is among the fundamental acts of Ibadat.

It has been ordained by Allah Ta'ala for the development of taqwa (piety) in the Mu'mineen.

Fasting is extremely efficacious for the acquisition of taqwa.

A Muslim cannot acquire Divine Proximity without taqwa.

Without taqwa, the Muslim must necessarily drift far off the straight Path (Siratul Mustaqeem) which leads to Allah Ta'ala and everlasting success in the Akhirah.

One who denies the faridhat (obligation) of Saum, no longer remains a Muslim and the one who does not fast during the month of Ramadhan is a fasiq (an immoral and flagrant transgressor) of the highest order.

Such a fasiq totally destroys his spirituality and morality and exposes his Iman to the gravest onslaughts of kufr.

There are numerous benefits, both spiritual and physical, of fasting.

The prime benefit in the pursuit of taqwa is the suppression of the mundane desires and demands of nafs-e-ammaraah (man's base carnal propensity).

The nafs is perpetually in collusion with shaitan to spiritually and morally ruin the Mu'min.

If the nafs is allowed unrestrained freedom, it will succeed to make man the slave of passion, lust and base emotions.

His Iman will suffer.

The Noor of his Iman will be extinguished.

It is, therefore, essential that the nafs is put in fetters.

Fasting greatly aids in this direction.

By fasting, the Muslim learns to restrain his lowly desires.

The nafs is not allowed free expression.

The nafs becomes accustomed to submit to the Shariah's restrictions.

Carnal desires are weakened and the ability of inculcating taqwa is created.

Fasting produces purity in the rooh (soul).

For such purity to come into the rooh, spiritual authorities (the Auliya) say, there is nothing that has greater efficacy than fasting.

While fasting results in physical health, it creates a feeling of palpable spiritual purity in Mu'min.

The Door of Roobaniyat (spiritual domain) is opened up to fasting.

RAVEENA RETURNS TO SALVAGE SALMAN'S HEART... AND BODY!

SHYAMBAJAJ and Director K. Murli Mohan Rao have teamed up with Salman Khan, Rani Mukherjee, Pooja Batra, Raveena Tandon, Mohnish Behl, Kashmiria Shah, Jackie Shroff, Shakti Kapoor, Inder Kumar, (among others) to prove to all and sundry and not only are marriages made in heaven, but the Big Man up there makes sure that the lucky couple remain blessed.

Kahin Pyaar Na Ho Jaaye has a solo screening at the LOTUS CINEMA starting today (Friday).

The story starts off with a happy parivaar, Mohnish Behl, his wife Kashmiria Shah, two young kids and younger brother Salman Khan who aspires to be a singing star.

Salman is engaged to marry Raveena, but she ditched him for a richer man.

Crushed by the rejection, Salman meets Rani, whom he immediately falls in love with (talk about on the rebound!).

However, the spoke in the wheel is even more complicated as Rani on the other hand is engaged to be married to someone else.

With his best friend, Jackie Shroff's help, Salman works hard to win Rani's heart, so that she in turn dumps her fiancé for him.

But will this really work for a desi Indian nari, who love once and only once in their lifetime?

To make things worse, Raveena changes her mind and returns to marry Salman and now tries to salvage what was once hers - Salman's heart (and body, may I add!).

Film Preview by Anjum Asotia

Which of these jodis is really blessed and approved from up there?

See for yourself in Kahin Pyaar Na Ho Jaaye at the LOTUS CINEMA.

By the way, did you know that actor Aamir Khan is not just brawn and beauty, but brains as well.

He took part in the very popular game show Kaun Banega Crorepati hosted by Amitabh Bachchan and actually reached 600,000 rupees - just one question away from the targetted one crore rupees!

FROM FRONT PAGE

"Most of our people have no idea about Waswahili and their culture because of ignorance and inadequate research.

"Swahili culture is a unique culture among the African culture, this is because its culture is spread all over Africa, such as farming, fishing, navigation, carpenter, carving, dhow building, gold smith, black smith, stone house building, building restoration, cooking, astronomy (falaki), healing and herbs.

"Each of the above has a special quality of knowledge ... we can write volumes of books about them.

"The Waswahili have preserved their culture and history on their own ways including folklores, stories, poetry, poems, stanzas, and complete literature.

"It can take a long time to cover all these subjects on research.

"Waswahili were there on the coast before the 1st century (AD) as it was mentioned in ancient travel books.

"Mention was made of the sewn boat (Mtepe), Outrigger canoe (ngalawa), fishing trap (dema or emaa).

"Since then the Waswahili stayed in this part of Africa and they were doing trade with Arabs and India and they were using the sewn boat as their transport.

"We have a major role to play in maintaining the African heritage in the concept of development of the enriched Swahili Culture.

dialogue will definitely bring benefits to all coastal people in all social development, employment, education conservation, business circles, farmers, members chamber of commerce, fisher-men and transporters.

"Our Swahili cuisine, amongst the best in Africa with the excellent ingredients, can have facelift project where the coastal town tourism stakeholders could be involved to assist organizing monthly Swahili Dinners at Fort Jesus in conjunction with our committee.

"We should help promote viable Swahili Women Associations in running their objective activities.

"Such functions will allow our Swahili women to enjoy new vision and harmony: apart from our culture, which is a step forward of good development.

"These groups will also be able to display and sell crafts and textiles at very minimal prices in the course of the planned food festival.

"On perfumery they can demonstrate to the female tourists i.e. Hina, Vikuba, Mashada, which I am confident their visit to Mombasa will be a lifetime memory."

Mr. Mohamed Ahmed Daud thanked Swahili Scholar, Mr. Ahmed Nabhany in strongly supporting the Swahili Cultural Festival and numerous Mombasa civic leaders who also willingly assisted this remarkable event.

"Kenya Police did an excellent job in providing security and in controlling the traffic during the procession to the arena.

"Indeed the police were also in action in taking care of parking facilities that have been arranged at Nkurumah road Makadara, Law Courts, and Treasury Square where good security was provided by those checking on stationery traffic".

WHEN IT'S DARK IN THE RURAL AREAS ... IT'S REALLY DARK ...

You Think You've Seen Dark ? What About 'Total Night' In The 'Shags' ?

URBAN DRIVING at night has its many hazards as compared to rural driving.

This was among the last things that came across to Kachumbari during his test drive as an Advanced Motorist.

In rural areas it grows really dark after night fall.

The absence of background lighting of any kind makes headlights very effective even if they are not properly adjusted.

Even with a full moon headlights still seem to light up more than they do in urban areas.

Most of us have experienced the 'shags' night which is total.

The human eye can adjust to very low levels of light but there are nights when that is not possible.

People walking around will talk at the top of their voices to warn people of their presence.

If one were to keep quiet, there is a likelihood of bumping into other pedestrians at night.

A torch that one would normally dismiss as ineffective in town has laser like reach in the rural areas.

Torches can be used to immobilise some animals due to their apparent brightness in the rural settings.

Very often when one is driving in the rural areas at night, one will see points of light ahead in the headlight beam which disappear.

One then suddenly finds themselves smacking a rabbit, a cat or a dog which became mesmerised by the lights.

COASTDRIVE with Teii Kamugunda

Sometimes turns out to be a bovine and that can be quite painful on the car.

In urban areas, the roads are designed to have street lights so that drivers do not need to have full headlights on.

This situation obtained years back when councils were councils and things worked.

In this day and age the lights are few and far between and even when there are enough, the luminance is very low.

This puts the urban driver in a dilemma.

The use of full headlights will lead to other drivers retaliating. Normal headlights are ineffective due to the patches of light and dark.

The eye sometimes doesn't adjust as quickly as expected and the driver can easily miss an indicator that would tell him that there was trouble ahead.

One of the biggest hazards in urban areas are the broken down vehicles which are left without any retro-reflective warning signs and whose lights are damaged.

The number of vehicles that one finds on the side of the road abandoned has increased in proportion to the influx of 'Dubais' into the Kenyan market.

CAR SMASH

These end of life vehicles are not meant for the tough conditions our battered infrastructure presents and they break down easily.

The average chap who owns one of those can scarcely afford to replace warning triangles and would rather use the traditional vegetation to warn.

In dark places the green merges very well with the road surface and before one knows it they have shunted the back of broken down vehicle.

Kachumbari witnessed such a case where he was driving behind a vehicle on a road leading to one of the housing estates in Nairobi.

He saw the guy in front suddenly brake and then heard the sound of shattering glass as the car in front hit an apparently marked broken down vehicle.

There was a passenger who had been left to look after the broken down vehicle and he came out hurriedly not knowing what had happened.

The errant driver tried to get away but he was held in by some wananchi who appeared from nowhere when they heard the sound of the crash.

When the cops came they charged both drivers, one for driving into the back of a vehicle despite the warning signs that were put in place and the other for not having reflective strips on the back.

What foxed the onlookers was that the boys in blue considered the few twigs and branches laid out on the road as sufficient warning.

They did not accept that they could not perform that function after having been run over by several luckier vehicles and ground into the dirt.

One has to be extra careful driving in the urban surrounding at night.

Not only is there the threat of carjacking but also the additional hazards that one cannot see because of the ineffective services provided by our councils.

BAD LIGHTING

Bad roads bad lighting bad signage and bad governance all come together to make the life of the urban motorist miserable.

As Kachumbari says, the Mwalimu and Ndirangus of this world should get their act together and play their part in helping to reduce the damage and carnage on the urban roads.

Respect Our Islamic Law

The programme of Swahili Cultural Festival was wonderful but the organiser should respect accordingly the Islamic Law as Swahilis were Muslims.

Some dances should be restricted because the songs mentioned the Holy Prophet (SAW).

My advice is that such festival should be based under Islamic Law cause the non-Muslim will misunderstand our religion.

Hi, I am Juliet De Souza, my husband Salus D'Souza, who was headmaster of Sacred Heart Primary School in Mombasa and my children Rita Anne, David and Marlon came to the U.S.A. ten years ago.

I came across the Web Page for Coastweek as I was surfing the Net and decided to say Jambo to all our friends in Mombasa.

I love reading the Coastweek and catching up on things happening in Mombasa.

Saw the picture of Mrs. Lal on the net. I used to teach with her at Loreto Convent and her husband and Salus were good friends.

We miss our friends there and want to say hello to all.

Good luck to your paper and keep up the good work.

On Preventing 'Mobile' Theft

Help reduce Mobile phone thefts. It may be of interest to all those who have a mobile phone.

To check your Mobile phone's serial number, key in the * # 0 6 #

A 15 digit code will appear on the screen.

Write it down and should your phone get stolen, you can phone your service provider and give them this code.

They will then be able to block your handset so even if the thief changes the Sim card your phone will be totally useless.

You probably won't get your phone back, but at least if everybody did this, there would be no point in stealing mobile phones.

A NILE CROCODILE CAN HAVE UPTO 68 TEETH IN ITS MOUTH

NILE CROCODILE are very dangerous reptiles. They are recorded as the oldest creatures in the world.

There are about 2000 crocodiles at Haller Park.

The adult crocodiles are about 25 years old.

The crocodiles body is covered with bony plates on it's back.

It is grey in colour.

The male crocodile weighs up to 1,500 Kgs. while the female weighs 800 Kgs.

This is because when the female has eggs in it's stomach, it does not eat and loses a lot of energy when laying eggs.

The adult crocodile measures five metres to six metres long.

It has 64 to 68 teeth.

It has four legs.

CROCODILE HABITS:

The crocodile can either swim in water or walk on land.

It feeds once every two weeks.

It is considered a natural garbage or dustbin because it can eat any kind of meat, rotten or good.

This is because it does not have a tongue to taste.

They rest by sleeping in the sun or on land with their mouth open wide, to cool their temperature.

BREAST FEEDING IS BEST

BREAST milk is the ideal food for babies because of the following reasons:

* It contains all the nutrients that babies need for the first one to six months.

* It is easily digested and the baby's body is able to use the iron in breast milk better than from other sources.

* Breast milk contains substances that may help protect babies against illnesses.

* Some studies have shown that babies who were breast-fed had less colic and diarrhea, fewer colds and ear infections.

* Breast milk also seems to protect babies from food allergies as they get older.

* The American Academy of Paediatrics has stated that breast milk is the best food for infants throughout the first year of life.

TWENTY YEARS' AGO ...

COASTWEEK, November 21 - 37, 1980:

WORLD BANK sponsored Shs. 140 million Mombasa Second Urban Project was finally given the go-ahead. A catalogue of woes had earlier surfaced in the findings of the World Bank supervision mission after talks with the Municipality of Mombasa. The World Bank supervision mission had not in their earlier fact finding meeting taken kindly to the significant costs overruns and were apparently unimpressed by the Council's earlier proposal for the reduction of the project scope.

A COAST leaders' meeting unanimously resolved to give fresh commitment, sacrifice and determination in the efforts to revive the Coast Institute of Technology (C.I.T.). The meeting which was chaired by Minister for Co-operatives Development Mr. Robert Matano also had the presentation of a cheque for Shs. 428,841/10 from the Deputy Governor of the Central Bank of Kenya Ahmed Abdallah, being contributions made during past fund raising activities by Coast people living in Nairobi. MANAGING Director Kenya Cargo Handling Services Mr. Edward Halwanga, had warned people distributing pamphlets within the port area that the government would not tolerate people whose interest was to disrupt the smooth running of the port.

SHATRUGHAN (Shotgun) Sinha was in the religious "Shirdi Ke Saheb", following "Raid on Entebbe" which was running to packed houses at KENTA Cinema. A SMASHING cerebral thriller "Murder by Decree", a work of fiction about a detective on the trail of the real life mass murder, "Jack the Ripper" who terrorized London's squalid East End in 1888 was being screened at the NAAZ Cinema. WHEN you want action, you want "The Professionals" a.k.a. as Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, Robert Ryan and Jack Palance at REGAL Cinema. "PIKA KA Ghor" ("Love's Home") with Anil Dhawan and Jaya Bhaduri was being screened at the CHOX Cinema. SHEKHAR Mehta and Lefty Druwe won the Coast 800 Motor Rally amid deep sand, glutinous mud, rocky drifts, dust and the Taita Hills at night.

ROBINSON Island's David Hurd was given a warrior's funeral by hundreds of the Girieme people that he loved and assisted throughout his life.

SHANZU HOTEL USES HI-TECH SYSTEMS TO SAVE ON ELECTRICITY AND WATER BILLS

of 'pressure' and 'flow'. The former relates to water coming from a pump system and the latter to that coming directly through the pipes.

With the use of a 'Flow Controller', which you can fit where the filter is in the taps, you reduce the flow of water.

In our case this has been from 10 litres to 2½ litres per minute and you do not notice the difference.

Hence, in these two ways we have managed to reduce our water consumption from the mains.

Turning to the question of hot water and the generation of energy from an electrical source, Mr. Stuart revealed that the hotel's electricity bill, based on a 50 per cent occupancy, is about Kshs. 1.3 - 1.6 million a month of which most go in taxes and foreign exchange adjustments.

Explaining what they had done he said 'we had a system on the 'comfort' side of our hotel where each Rondavel had three solar panels and a tank for storing the water going through the Solar Panels.

However, in times of their being not so much sun, there was a booster in the form of an electrical heater.

The hotel had 52 heater elements which, by changing the design of our hot water system, are no longer needed.

They were replaced by a steam boiler running off diesel or gas and heats water through a heat exchanger.

Said Mr. Stuart 'during the day we are now getting hot water for 'free'.

During the night, when there is no sun, it is boosted by steam - this being the best form of heating.

Consequently, we do not use any electricity for heating water at all and so is a major saving.

He went on 'the steam with which we now heat the water is excess steam and is also used in the laundry instead of electricity.

The hotel handles between 200-500 kilos of laundry a day using an incredible amount of water and chemicals.

Previously said Mr. Stuart 'we were using electricity to heat water there, now we are using steam.

As the mains water is too hard a softener had to be used.

STEAM BOILER

Instead of using chemicals as before the hotel is now filtering the water before it goes into the steam boiler.

Said Mr. Stuart 'this excess water has a pipe going all the way to the laundry so is also used for the final rinse in softened water, thus making clothes much softer.

Thus, by no longer having to buy softeners we are making a saving, which is quite good.

Added the hotel's Technical Manager, David McConnell 'while putting in the new water recycling system we realised that with a small added investment we could treble our capacity of fire fighting by installing extra fire hydrants.

As well, if there is a fire we have made it possible that by pressing one button in the reception area pressure in our pipes can be doubled to provide water for the hydrants.

We now have eight new ones all strategically placed.

We also realised then that when fire breaks out there is often a power cut.

So now we have a mobile VW engine.

By starting it you can pump water into these fire hydrants.

Mr. McConnell also mentioned that if you want proper clean water it is necessary to chlorinate the supply from the mains as it goes into the storage tank.

To combat the time when there is no supply of mains water, Severin Sea Lodge is considering putting in a borehole and a desalinator.

Mr. Stuart was one of the hoteliers at the recent meeting addressed by a team from International Finance Corporation (a part of the World Bank group) from Washington, USA.

It was about how clusters of hotels, through a private company, could be provided with a reliable water supply, electricity and garbage disposal to augment present inadequate supplies and services.

The idea is that a private company comes in to provide a reliable service, this being charged to the hotel on a usage basis.

Said Mr. Stuart 'we are very interested in the idea and could become part of a cluster from Neptune Beach to Whitesands Hotel.

If these hotels are interested we would be very keen to work with them on this.

Meanwhile, we have sent IFC the further statistics they need.

The 28 year old Severin Sea Lodge is proud of its reputation of being eco-friendly.

Long term stable investments have been made with particular emphasis being laid on the environment in any projected development.

SSL was the first on the north coast to have a sewage treatment plant installed.

Meanwhile, the hotel is doing well.

Said Mr. Stuart 'more tour operators are sending us clients and we are presently enjoying a 90 per cent occupancy'.

Adding 'the forecast up until the end of March 2001 looks very good, but not so for the summer season'.

Continuing he said tourism generally at the coast is still recovering and we hope this can be accelerated by the Kenya Tourist Board, particularly in traditional markets such as Germany from which we used to get the most tourists'.

REVENUE LOSS

Meanwhile, cost hoteliers are faced with escalating costs.

Mr. Stuart gave as an example that since 1999 their electricity bills had doubled.

He said 'running costs have now become so high and with the present lower hotel contract rates in force, in order to survive hoteliers are looking for ways of cutting energy costs'.

Here he noted that as hotels are forced to become more self-sufficient, so government will experience a considerable loss in revenue.

MR. SANJAY PANDIT (right) is seen receiving an award from the organiser of the Hospitality East Africa Exhibition Mr. David Clause, which was held at the Sarit Centre in Nairobi.

Top Honours For M. A. Pandit And 'Royal Tea'

AT THE recently concluded Hospitality East Africa 2000 Exhibition held at Sarit Centre, Nairobi, M. A. Pandit and Company Limited and Royal Tea Limited, have once again been awarded a top prize for quality produce.

The exhibition attracted local and international companies offering the best available in today's market to hoteliers, restaurateurs and all hospitality related businesses. Both M. A. Pandit and Royal Tea continue to excel in their unmatched customer relationship and for supply of high quality tea and coffee products.

Royal Tea Limited launched its new tagged tea bags, Mara River Tea. The tea bags contain the finest quality tea leaves packed and 'tagged' using the 'heat seal' technology, without using staples or wires.

The company continues to supply the hospitality industry with its quality Royal Tea bags with tags.

M. A. Pandit which has been in the tea and coffee business for over 30 years displayed its wide range of quality coffee products for both the hospitality and tourism industry.

The handloom packages for the tourist industry continued to attract great interest with visitors at the exhibition. To preserve the rich taste of coffee and tea leaves in the tea bags, the products are packed in aluminium foil.

THE TOURISM industry at the coast was euphoric as news reached it from London that the Kenya Stand had, for the first time, been judged the best at the prestigious World Travel Market.

It also signified the success of a joint effort by government, Kenya Tourist Board and the private sector to try and make Kenya once again a preferred destination worldwide.

It is looked upon as being a big step forward in the badly needed revival of tourism at the coast and something which should be immediately acted upon in the way of an aggressive marketing campaign, writes NETA PEAL.

Some leading tour operators in Europe are doing what they can to help in the revival of tourism at the coast, but their effort badly needs to be augmented by a promotional boost from KTB to more speedily achieve the desired effect.

While there is improvement in tourism at the coast this winter season there is, unfortunately, little optimism about Summer 2001 with lose, charters coming here.

Thus, the opportunity to reverse this should not be missed.

Meanwhile, the Vice-Chairman of the Kenya Tourism Federation, Mike Kiridand has, on behalf of the tourism industry at the coast, congratulated the Kenya Tourist Board for the prizewinning stand at the World Travel Market.

In a press statement he said 'it gave a first class image to the world. It made people feel very positive about our country and the result was increased business for everyone'.

He went on 'many overseas operators reported increases in bookings to Kenya and almost all commented upon the Beach Operators Re-Location Programme as being the most positive sign that Kenya is back on track becoming a 'built to last' destination.

Adding 'the formation of the Eco-Tourism Society of Kenya which aims to educate and eco-grade hotels and tour operators, was also remarked upon as being a very positive move to rebuild Kenya's image'.

In a press release from the Mombasa and Coast Tourist Association, its Acting Chairman, Kuldip Sondhi, congratulated the Kenya Tourist Board and Ministry of Tourism on their splendid achievement at the World Travel Market.

KENYA TOUR STAND SUCCESS AT W.T.M.

'To have won this prestigious prize on a world stage and in the face of formidable competition is a considerable achievement.'

It is also truly auspicious that this prize should have been secured at the start of the 2000/2001 tourist season.

Said Mr. Sondhi 'we at the coast who have suffered most from the slump in tourism also stand to benefit the most from such positive and timely exposure of Kenyan tourism.'

It is now up to hotels to ensure that their standards of service are up to the expectation of international tourists who will start coming to Kenya in much larger numbers.

We have to stand up to the competition from our neighbours such as Tanzania, Egypt, South Africa and Botswana and need to provide a refurbished image of a newly revived and vibrant industry.'

CONCESSIONS

Declared Mr. Sondhi 'the success of Kenya can only come from teamwork between the private sector and government which, when required, should make reasonable concessions to enable the tourist sector to produce greater wealth and employment for the benefit of the country.'

He suggested that for a start 'government should now take over from the hotels to resettle traders from the beaches'.

On the question of security, he said 'while the Tourist Police is a welcome addition to the industry, overall security is still a problem and should be tackled head on in areas where tourism makes its greatest impact, i.e. in game parks and at the coast.'

Internet should become more cost effective enabling us to advertise our industry on the Web.

This is less expensive than one-off Trade Fairs and in this way we can make up for lost time in catching up with the competition.

We also urge the various utility providers of electricity, telephone and water to ensure these services are reliable and reasonably priced.

Mr. Sondhi concluded by congratulating the Ministry and Government for the genuine efforts 'they are making to revive the economy in which coast tourism will once more play a leading role.'

K.Q. AIMING TO BE THE 'AIR LINE OF CHOICE' IN AFRICA

FROM FRONT PAGE magnificent business growth of the Company with cargo having done exemplary well from Nairobi.

However, as in all good stories, there is always a black spot and that unfortunately came out to be the Coast.

Graphically Mr. Steller was courageous enough to admit that KQ Cargo was taking a very unfamiliar second spot behind charters in Mombasa.

He climaxed his presentation by throwing a challenge to the Shippers and freight forwarders to advise the company how this negative scenario could be turned around.

Mr. Steller did not leave it at that as he continued to offer tips like developing sea and air traffic, taking advantage of Kenya Airways' very regular and expansive network for express cargo and perishable business.

During question time, many ideas came to the fore and the session was marked by serenity and total harmony between the airline and its customers.

The evening concluded the aviation way with a sumptuous dinner hosted by Mr. Steller for the esteemed participants.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER: IS IT GOOD FOR YOUR MANAGERS TO KEEP KNOWLEDGE SKILLS TO THEMSELVES?

Why do I ask you this?

Well many of you have knowledge and skills that the staff you manage do not possess.

You gain this knowledge because of your position and because you attend operations management meetings so you are given knowledge or information pertaining to certain areas of the company that you should pass on to your staff in a further departmental meeting.

But do we often feel as managers / supervisors that this knowledge gives you 'power' and as you like the 'power' we don't share that knowledge with staff?

As managers we only achieve results in our departments through our staff!

Often staff need certain knowledge on a particular subject in order for them to perform their job effectively, so by us not sharing the knowledge we possess with our staff we will make our department and ultimately our company less effective!

What are the opportunities available to us for sharing information with our staff?

Meetings can be conducted daily, weekly, or even monthly (but they must be conducted on a regular basis).

They give us an opportunity to answer questions on work issues and for us to ask our staff for their ideas as to how we can improve sales, production, customer service.

Meetings or can we now call them ('information sharing activities') are not held 'when there is a problem in the department'.

No, they are for sharing 'good news' as well as 'bad news', No, share all you know with your staff (providing it isn't sensitive or private information) it is in our interests as managers / supervisors for our staff to be able to perform their jobs effectively.

We as managers and supervisors are often asked by your companies to attend training courses.

We gain skills our staff do not possess.

What do we do when we return to work?

Do we keep the knowledge and skill to ourselves or do we say to ourselves, I will help my

Management & Marketing
ROBERT L. FOULSER

staff by sharing all I know then they will be effective and so will my department?

We are ultimately hurting ourselves if we don't share knowledge / information with our staff.

How do you ask? Because our department will not be able to function as effectively.

When we don't share information it can cause us to lose out on possible promotion or even the future loss of our job?

Think carefully! Share what we know with others.

Antonia Behrens spendet ihr nagelneues Auto zur Umsiedlung der Strandhändler

EIN NAGELNEUER Toyota Corolla wurde gespendet, um mehr Geld aufzubringen für den "Beach Operators Re-Location Trust", damit die Touristen die wunderschönen Strände an der kenianischen Küste unbehelligt genießen können, ohne von "fliegenden Händlern" belästigt zu werden, die ihre Waren in Zukunft in besonders für sie errichteten Tourismuskäufen anbieten können, schreibt NETA PEAL.

Die Kosten für das Projekt, rund 4000 Strandhändler entlang der Küste von Shimoni bis nach Lamu auf diese neuen Marktplätze umzusiedeln, werden auf Kshs 65 Millionen geschätzt.

Anfangs Oktober wurde zu diesem Zweck im Travellers Beach Hotel eine Sammlung durchgeführt, die rund 6 1/2 Millionen Kshs ergab und der Minister für Tourismus, Handel und Industrie, Nr. Nicholas Biwott, war als Ehrengast eingeladen.

Antonia Behrens, die Freundin eines der Treuhänder des "Beach Operators Re-Location Trust", entschloss sich zu dieser überaus großzügigen Spende, nachdem sie von Mike Kirkland gehört hatte, dass die Treuhänder des Trust schwer enttäuscht waren über die wenigen kärglichen Spenden, die aus der Nairobi Geschäftswelt geleistet wurden.

Antonia Behrens sagte: "Ich habe diesen Toyota Corolla kürzlich als Preis in der Olympiade Tombola gewonnen und dachte, er könnte mithelfen, mehr Geld zur Umsiedlung der Strandhändler aufzubringen."

Mike Kirkland, als Sprecher des Trust, dankte Antonia Behrens für ihre großzügige Spende und gab bekannt, dass die Verlosung sobald wie möglich durchgeführt wird.

Auch er erinnerte die Nairobi Geschäftswelt daran, dass dieses Projekt, um die Strände in Kenia von fliegenden Händlern freizuhalten, der Tourismusindustrie ungemein nützlich wird, die direkt oder indirekt 45 Prozent der Arbeitsplätze für die Küstenbewohner stellt.

Und wenn sich der Tourismus an der Küste erholt, kann dadurch die Wirtschaft im ganzen Lande profitieren.

Ihre Unterstützung ist deshalb eher eine Investition als eine wohltätige Spende, denn dadurch wird so vielen Lieferanten und Herstellern geholfen, darunter Brauereien, Limonadenfabriken, Fluggesellschaften, Banken, Kreditkartenfirmen, Versicherungen, Reifenfabriken, Fahrzeugimporteure, Produzenten und Lieferanten von Lebensmitteln ferner Telefondienste, Hotelleinrichtungen etc. Die Liste der Nutznießer ist endlos.

Es scheint jedoch, dass die Nairobi Geschäftswelt die volle Bedeutung dieser Umsiedlungsaktion noch gar nicht erfasst hat.

Mr. Kirkland fordert deshalb alle Geschäftsleute auf, darüber nachzudenken und mehr für dieses gute Werk zu spenden.

Mike Kirkland ist Chairman der Kenya Association of Tour Operators, Küste, Vice-Chairman der Kenya Federation of Tourism und einer der Treuhänder des Beach Operators Re-Location Trust.

Spenden an Beach Operators Re-Location Trust, P.O. Box 80317, Mombasa.

BEI EINER Tasse Tee erzählt Mike Kirkland, Sprecher des "Beach Operators Re-Location Trust" von Antonia Behrens von ihrem Entschluss, ihr neues Auto zur Verlosung zur Verfügung zu stellen, um Geld aufzubringen zur Umsiedlung der Strandhändler auf speziell errichtete Tourismuskäufe.

Umweltrust organisiert Abfallbeseitigung

ES WAR DIE größte Reinigungsaktion an der kenianischen Küste, als sich Mitte September rund 4000 freiwillige Helfer zur Müllbekämpfung zur Verfügung stellten.

Leider versäumte die Stadtverwaltung, ihre Müllwagen zu den vorher vereinbarten Sammelplätzen zu schicken.

Diese Freiwilligen hatten einen Teil der Arbeit übernommen, die eigentlich zu den Aufgaben der Stadtverwaltung gehört, um die Stadt Mombasa sauberzuhalten.

Die Stadtverwaltung entschuldigte sich damit, dass sie keinen Treibstoff hatte für ihre Fahrzeuge!

Die privaten Müllabfuhrunternehmen Prima Pest, Prima Bins und Keen Kleeners kamen spontan zu Hilfe, holten einen großen Teil der Abfälle und brachten sie auf die Müllhalde der Stadt in Kibarani am Makupa Dam. Diese sechstägige Reinigungsaktion, organisiert vom Environment Trust of Kenya, wurde erstmals mit einem Festival beendet (das einzige dieser Art in Kenia), bei welchem sich alle 4000 Umweltfreunde versammelten und sich freuten, zusammen mit 40 Millionen Gleichgesinnten in 120 Ländern der Welt, über die gute Arbeit, die sie im Rahmen der Kapagne "Clean up the World" geleistet hatten.

Mr. F. Ananthakrishnan, Vertreter der UNO Umweltorganisation UNEP, Nairobi, erklärte im Namen des Executive Direktors Klaus Töpfer:

"Ich bin sehr zufrieden mit dem Umweltbewusstsein, das ich in Mombasa angetroffen habe."

Mariakani hatte den Wunsch geäußert, sich der Mombasa

Reinigungswoche anzuschließen und wurde mit Abstand der Gewinner des sehr geschätzten Preises (Schild und Trophäe) des Environment Trust of Kenya.

Die Gemeinde Mariakani wurde ausgezeichnet für besten Teamgeist, Sauberhalten der meisten Dorfplätze und größtes Engagement für die Sache, so dass sie eindeutig siegte über Changamwe, Likoni, die Insel Mombasa und Kisauni.

Die Preise wurden überreicht von Mr. Bernard Ko'Mbudho, Umweltdirektor, in Vertretung des Umweltministers Mr. Francis Nyanze.

Andere VIP Gäste bei dem großen Finale waren Mr. Wilfred ole Legei, District Commissioner, Mombasa, gleichzeitig Chairman des Umweltkomitees; Councillor Abdul Tifu Ubwa, stellvertretender Bürgermeister von Mombasa; Mr. Najib Bafala, Chairman der kenianischen Industrie- und Handelskammer.

Das Festival war eine fröhliche Angelegenheit, begann mit einer Prozession durch die Straßen der Stadt, Mombasa zum Stadion und endete mit einem Fußballmatch, den Kisauni gegen Changamwe 3:2 gewann und dafür einen Preis erhielt.

Auf dem Stadion wurde ein Nonstop Unterhaltungsprogramm geboten mit rund 40 Attraktionen, unter anderem Darbietungen von Schülern, Kirchen, Polytechnikum, Frauen-, Kinder- und Künstlergruppen.

Mr. Z. Nderu, Chairman des Environment Trust of Kenya, erklärte:

"Wir können uns glücklich schätzen, dass wir so gute Unterstützung von so vielen Leuten in Mombasa und Mariakani erhielten."

Frauengruppen

"Darunter waren Einzelpersonen, Familien, Schulen, Frauengruppen, Organisationen und Service Clubs, aber offenbar fehlt das Engagement der Stadtverwaltung, um Mombasa sauberzuhalten."

"Die Verwaltung hatte uns versichert, die eingesammelten Abfallhaufen an den vereinbarten Stellen abzuholen, was leider nicht geschah."

Mr. Nderu dankte Shell/ BP, Prima Pests, Prima Bins, Keen Kleeners, Kenya Oil Refineries und vor allem NACS (Nairobi Airport Services) Mombasa, die für die Freiwilligen Lunch zur Verfügung stellten.

Gleichzeitig mit der Sauberhaltungswoche wurde der jährliche Kunst/ Malwettbewerb zum Thema Umwelt in Schulen in der Küstenprovinz abgehalten.

Die Auswertung fand am 7. Oktober im Fort Jesus Museum statt, gefolgt von einer vielfältigen Ausstellung der Bilder.

Laser One Fleet With Andy, Chris, Marylyn And Edward Omondi Have 'Battle Royale'

THREE EVENTS on Sunday all run simultaneously - it meant three different fleets on the water each fleet running five minutes behind the other.

The first away were the Bosuns competing for the MacDonal Cup, were Armilla, Orion and Centurion.

The rules state that the skipper must swap boats on every race until each skipper has sailed each boat.

All crews stay with the boats thus retaining the balance and putting everybody on and equal footing.

The Skippers were Philip Jones, Michael Smewing and Gordon Schofield whilst Armilla crew was Kalim Hassanali, Orion Crew was MYC star boatman Iddi.

Iddi looks after all our boats, the swimming pool and the boatyard.

He also runs the rescue boat, lays the buoys and monitors the race, on that day he had a 'busmans holiday' and crewed Orion.

Centurion crew was Jacques Martineau.

The first race saw Philip Jones in Centurion snatch a 50 metre lead off the line only to squander it at the first mark by going the wrong way.

Michael Smewing took advantage and was away into the lead.

Gordon Schofield had a bad start and was left behind by several hundred metres.

With boats of equal abilities that is too much to give away and he was not a contender.

Michael with crew Kalim held Philip and Jacques off for the next 25 minutes; two marks from home and the two were neck and neck.

Beating alongside each other, they were separated by just a metre of water, the wind was up and the combined weight of Philip Jones and Jacques Martineau was greater.

The two of them pulled the boat flat and passed Michael and Kalim to go on and win.

Race two and everybody missed the start, Gordon with Kalim this time started and immediately broke the jib-stay ruling them out of the race and condemning them to the bottom of the competition.

Philip was away first and Michael was literally parked on Philip's stern.

This time Michael had Centurion and the additional weight of Jacques to battle the winds.

It looked like they would take the lead off Philip and Iddi but they made the mistake of trying to sail too close and found themselves windward boat and pushed way off course.

At the turn there appeared to be a doorway open between Philip and the ship they were rounding; Michael took the gap and realised too late it was deliberate.

They were so close to the ship they fell into the shadow and there was no wind to drive them thus allowing Philip and Iddi to gain another 100 metres.

They chased all the way round the course slowly taking back a few metres here and a few metres there.

At Mweza Buoy it looked like they were through again as another doorway opened between Philip and the buoy.

Michael dived in again and found himself in the shadow of Philip and Iddi.

He stalled up and lost headway allowing Philip and Iddi to take back their 100 metres.

From there it was a procession, and at the end Gordon and Kalim joined the race for the last two marks having made repairs to their boat.

Back at the club it was discovered that Michael and Jacques had lost their starboard jib-bleat and this is what caused them to lose time and stall up at Mweza.

With one boat out of action and the winner decided all three teams retired from the race.

Whilst this was going on the Laser one fleet were having a Battle Royale, Andy Burnard won the first race by a whisker with Chris Barnes second Marylyn Barnes third and Edward Omondi fourth.

Race two saw Chris Barnes following Andy Burnard until Andy made a tacking error and Chris capitalised and slipped through to win a very close race. Two races down and Andy and Chris were first equal!

Race three and all eyes were on the pair (it looked like a grudge match!) Chris got away and as everyone watched the two main protagonists, who should slip into second and push Andy back a place but Edward Omondi.

Last race and Andy had to win and hope that Chris was third or fourth, if this happened it he could draw or win the title.

Off they all went and the chase was on, again all eyes on Chris and Andy, (another mistake!) who should sneak away but that Edward Omondi again!

Andy could not afford to let him win but for Chris it was good news.

If Edward stayed in front he was certain to win, it was just as well because Chris was running last!

To make matters worse Marylyn Barnes who had until this time been conspicuous by her absence from the leaders popped up in front of Andy Burnard to push him down into third.

Chris by now was quite happy to toddle along into fourth in the secure knowledge that Edward with his first and Marylyn with her second had given him the title.

Orestes Cup winner 2000 - Chris Barnes.

Three 420's battled out the BAT Trophy and as with the other fleets crew stayed with the boat whilst skippers moved to a new boat each race.

Samuel Ndarro and Alistair

Barnes in their favoured Stothert and Pitt walked away with the first race, throughout the club it is almost felt that when these two are together the rest of us are racing for the minor placings.

Race two was more interesting as Alistair Barnes teamed up with Alfred Okoth whilst Samuel Ndarro teamed up with Stephen Ogada.

It was some good racing that saw Samuel and Stephen get home in front of Alistair and Alfred.

Omar Mbithi disappointed by coming in third with Harold Otieno as crew.

Last race and the helm prize was already settled but the crew prize was still up for grabs, Stephen and Alistair were even on points.

Scenic Route

They came up the far side of the bay and Stephen teamed with Alfred looked to be leading.

To make matters worse for Alistair, they were behind Harold and Samuel and looked beaten.

For some reason Alfred and Stephen took the scenic route around the moored ship!

This simply knocked them out of contention.

Alistair and Omar did some very fancy sailing that took them in front of Samuel and Harold by no more than a metre or two.

It was enough! They held onto that to win by boat length thus giving Alistair the crew prize in the BAT Trophy and Samuel Ndarro the Skippers prize.

Celestial Armada Of Legendary Warships Fighting Out Their Trafalgars In The Sky

WITH A break in the weather in the middle of last week, Mtwapa fishing changed from patchy to very good, with some excellent catches that included two double catches of sailfish, and two new Moorings records established.

These catches had an international flavour with the most notable being by anglers from Austria, South Africa, France and Germany.

To add to recent successes by women anglers, on Friday Rosa Shlutter of Austria was fishing on James Adcock's boat, Vuma, when one of the rods bent low to the pull of a strong fish and she had to do some heavy lifting to bring up a yellowfin tuna of 26 kilos, setting a new Ladies record for this species in The Moorings record book. The other record, also for yellowfin tuna, and on the same day, was a line-class record for a fish of 27.7 kilos, or 61 pounds, caught on 20 pound breaking strain line by South African angler Andy Dahl, who fished on James Adcock's other boat, the Sesse canoe, Samvuke, captained by James.

That afternoon the shoals of tuna and bonito were beating the surface of the sea, white as they swarmed to engulf baitfish, while flocks of terns dived from the sky, perfect conditions for casting with lead lures on light line, which Andy was keen to do, but the tuna kept lunging at the lure and missing.

While the boat was moving between shoals there was suddenly a discordant scream as three reels gave up line, three tuna hooked together, three rods pulled down.

Two of the fish dropped off, leaving one on the light rod that had been trolling a tiny red plastic squid meant for bonito, but with skillful use of pressure Andy brought the fish up in only twenty minutes, to establish his record.

The sailfish that have been in our waters for some weeks finally started taking baits and one of the first to profit from this was David Taylor of Kilifi, fishing on Saturday with his wife Anne on Bado captained by Bob Brenneisen.

David had a catch of a sailfish that was tagged and released, three dorado of between eight and ten kilos each and a yellowfin tuna of seven kilos, besides losing another sailfish due to a tangled line, all of which adds up to an excellent day's fishing.

Also in on the sailfish action on Saturday were Rob Jessop and John Webb, fishing on Ontos, with another sailfish tagged and released, a yellowfin and a skipjack tuna.

They were the winners of a two-boat competition between themselves and Samvuke, which was fished by Nas Khan and James, these two going for variety rather than size and having lots of fun, with a catch of barracuda, barega, kingfish and bonito.

Samvuke was out on the blue water again on Sunday with Parisian angler Rene Cazetien manning the rods and having an experience of a lifetime.

He hooked a fish just as Samvuke was passing Ontos and the fish jumped, bill pointing at the sky, sail fin spread, the first sailfish of his life, what a thrill, and it jumped again several times and was eventually brought in, a fish of 22 kilos that was kept since it was his first.

Soon afterwards a bonito bait was taken and dropped, then taken again and the fish was struck and was a second sailfish, a bigger one of about 32 kilos that was brought to the boat where the hooks were slipped out without damage and it was revived and set free.

Two sailfish, one of them a lifetime first, enough excitement for one day, one would think.

But for a Parisian, not quite: Rene also caught a kingfish and lost another at the boat, a well-observed fish, probably bigger than his first sailfish, probably 30 kilos by James's estimation, a superb kingfish gone back down to wait till another one of us comes along, a fish to go out for.

The other double sailfish catch was achieved by Gerd Glaser from Germany who was fishing with his wife on Walter Brun's boat, Baloo, also on Sunday and he went even higher in the excitement stakes with an additional catch of not just one but three kingfish and also a dorado.

The sailfish were not so obliging for Bado that day, with three following the baits but not taking and only one fish caught, a barracuda of about seven kilos brought in by Anne Taylor.

Howard Lawrence-Brown's boat, Kipapa, was out on the waves several times during the week, with the Lionet Family party from France on board and they had some catches of kawakawa, yellowfin tuna and skipjack tuna, which they added to with wahoo and dorado caught on Monday this week.

So, seven species of fish caught during the week, and while sharks were back in our waters too, those gentia giants of the sea, surfacing like brown islands in the shoals of tuna and bonito, sometimes the fish jumping over their backs.

Two of them were seen by Bob Brenneisen and his party on Bado on Saturday and one on Sunday.

They must have been brought by the suddenly changed pattern of fish behaviour, all on the surface, all feeding, and this was probably caused by the change in the weather, the hot, still days, unbearably humid, broken by thunderstorms rolling and cannonading like some celestial armada of legendary warships fighting out their Trafalgars in the sky.

Whatever the reason let us hope the fishing continues good and lasts at least until the next Mtwapa competition, the Open Boat competition on the 16th and 17th of December, which will also be a social event not to miss, held at The Moorings restaurant where at least three of life's great pleasures combine.

EXPERT WHO MADE HIS IMPOSSIBLE CONTRACT

THIS WEEK'S hand was played by an expert who made his impossible contract.

Dealer: South. East-West 'vulnerable'. BIDDING:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
ONE SPADE	PASS	ONE NO TRUMP	PASS
TWO DIAMONDS	PASS	THREE SPADES	PASS
FOUR SPADES	PASS	PASS	PASS

West led the Queen of Hearts against an ambitious contract.

He played low from dummy and when east followed with the Eight, deceptively dropped the Nine.

West was unwilling to continue Hearts - believing South's Nine to be a singleton and switched to a trump.

NORTH

♠	K	J	10
♥	K	7	5	2
♦	10	8	7
♣	Q	8	6

EAST

WEST

♥	Q	J	10	6	4
♦	K	J
♣	J	9	5	2

Declarer drew three rounds of trumps finishing in dummy and led and ran the Ten of Diamonds to West's knave.

West continued with the Knave of Hearts and declarer ran this to his Ace, East discarding an encouraging Seven of Clubs. Too late.

Declarer played his three of Hearts to dummy's Seven, discarded his singleton Club.

on dummy's King of hearts, led a Diamond to his Ace felling West's King and a third Diamond to East's Queen.

He ruffed East's Ace of Clubs return, cashed his Nine of Diamond and completed the contract.
